Rollback On Prices Studied

Freeze Of About Eight Million May Come By End Of Week

By MAX HALL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) today aimed at a simultaneous freeze of about eight million prices by the end of the coming week.

If they fail to issue the order by that time, OPS officials think it will be largely because of formalities and mechanical details—and not disagreements over policy.

ESA consultants have estimated, on the basis of World War II experience, that general controls would apply to about eight million different prices and three or four million companies.

Eric Johnston, the administrator of the Economic Stabilization Agency (ESA), under which OPS operates, is not expeected to block the freeze. President Truman appointed Johnston to the ESA job yesterday after dismissing Alan Valentine, who had held up an earlier freeze proposal on the ground it was premature.

Today the White House was preparing to issue an executive order changing the whole stabilization setup. The reorganization is the work of Charles E. Wilson, Director of Defense Mobilization who is just above Johnston in the chain of command.

Johnston for Supervisor

This order was expected to:

1. Make Johnston the umpire and general policy supervisor of the whole stabilization program, including prices, wages, rents, and credit controls. Johnston has taken a leave of absence from his job as president of the Motion Picture Association. He is a former Spokane, Wash., manufacturer and former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

2. Make the OPS an autonomous agency to operate price controls. Michael V. Disalle is the OPS director.

3. Make the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) an autonomous agency to operate wage controls. Cyrus S. Ching is the WSB chairman. Later, this nine-man board is likely to be handed the authority to settle labor disputes affecting the defense effort.

Johnston will settle any dispute between the OPS and WSB.

Valentine, as ESA administrator, conceived it his duty to be the operating head of price and wage stabilization, as well as the policy coordinator. His behind-the-scenes struggle with Disalle and Ching over this was one cause of his dismissal.

Called to Testify

Johnston, Disalle, and Ching—the "big three" of stabilizers—have been called to testify before a committee of Senators and Representatives next Wednesday at a public hearing.

The congressmen, many of whom have been demanding quick price-wage controls and denuoncing all "dilly-dallying," want to ask some pointed questions.

This group is the "joint committee on the economic report," headed by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo). O'Mahoney announced also that the committee will hear Marriner Eccles, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, on Thursday and Mobilizer Wilson on Friday.

Brake on Advances

The coming price freeze is expected to roll back prices. The most talked-about date has been Jan. 1.

The order will be only temporary, designed to put a brake on the climbing cost of living until detailed ceiling prices can be worked out on about eight million items industry by industry.

The price freeze will exempt those food prices which cannot be restrained without holding the farmers' prices below parity. Parity is a long-standing formula designed to give the farmer a fair income in relation to the prices of things he must buy. The Defense Production Act says no prices can be frozen below parity. Most farm prices now are below that level.

The price freeze will be accompanied, or followed shortly, by a wage control order, as required by the law. This will probably be a flat freeze, but only a temporary one until the WSB has completed a wage control formula it is working on.

Wages are unlikely to be rolled back. On this score, government labor experts say that regardless of the equities, it is impracticable to roll back wages outside a totalitarian country.

Sorority Promotes "Mile Of Dimes"

Civilians In Federal Jobs Near 2,000,000

Missouri Total 43,621 With 96 In Pettis County

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—The federal government has civilian employes in every county of the United States except one—Armstrong county, South Dakota.

This was reported today by a joint congressional committee in what was said to be the first such breakdown ever compiled of the government's civilian payroll.

The report by the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures said the number of these workers is nearly 2,000,000 and is increasing rapidly.

Of these Missouri has a total of 43,621, with the postoffice department having 16,306. The next largest category is the national military establishment with 13,305.

The Missouri county with the smallest number of federal employes is Carter with 14. St. Louis county heads the list with 24,346, followed by Jackson with 8,983. Other counties and their number of federal employes include: Greene 1,306; Cole 1,187; Buchanan 427, Jasper 253 and Pettis 96.

Suggest Conserving

The committee, headed by Senator Byrd (D-Va), suggested in its report that action be taken to conserve the use of civilian manpower by the government.

Byrd said in a statement that unless "there is a check rein requirement for more effective use of manpower in the federal government" there will be efforts by the executive agencies to speed the rate of civilian employment.

The effort to conserve manpower, the committee said, should be undertaken by the National Security Resources Board, the Budget Bureau and Congress.

A committee official explained that although the figures were reported by the various government departments and agencies they do not reflect total federal employment because of variations in reporting dates.

It took the committee some six or seven months to gather the figures.

California with 179,085 outranked all other states and the District of Columbia in the number of civilian workers. This was because the report listed for the district only those workers whose "duty stations" are in the district.

Fractured Hip In A Fall

Mrs. Sophia Mutton, 1214½ South Massachusetts, avenue, fell Friday afternoon while downtown and fractured her hip. She is a patient in Bothwell hospital.

Polio is Expensive

When infantile paralysis strikes, very few families can afford to pay the entire cost of patient care. This may range from a few hundred dollars up to $15,000 or more, depending upon the degree of physical involvement and the months or years of necessary care. March of Dimes money is a Godsend, available to everyone who needs it.

For example, March of Dimes funds amounting to $17,000 have helped one Texas boy stricken in 1948. Hospital and physical therapy charges came to over $11,000, nursing almost $5,000.

Everyone giving this year to the Pettis County March of that the National Foundation Dimes is asked to remember for Infantile Paralysis today faces its greatest patient load, at a time when the value of the dollar has decreased. More money than ever is needed to pay for hospital care, professional help, iron lungs, hot pack machines and braces.

Five Negro Boy Scouts Drown Near Chicago

Forest Preserve Rangers said that apparently the boys tried to walk across the frozen stream and broke through the ice.

Police Chief Makes Report

Arrests In 1950 1,125 With Fines Collected $11,484

Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors, the past week, made his annual report to the City Council on the activities of the Sedalia Police department. The report shows the police made 1,125 arrests for the year 1950 resulting in many of the defendants being fined in police court and those fines totalled $12,581.00 of which $11,484.000 was paid.

The report shows 15 automobiles stolen and all recovered; 38 bicycles stolen, all recovered; bicycle and automobile accidents 7, injuries due to these accidents 5; motorbike-automobile accidents 1, slight injury; burglaries reported and investigated 43, burglaries attempted 9; arrests for other law enforcement agencies 68; automobile accidents reported and investigated 376; Persons injured in automobile accidents (all minor) 184; pedestrains struck by automobile 16, died of injuries from being struck by an automobile 1; suicides, 3; attempted suicides 1; accidental injuries from gunshot wounds, 1; deaths caused by fire 1.

Of the fines collected in police court $1,740 was collected from overtime parking violators.

Only 18 persons were arrested during the year for vagrancy.

Traffic violations show: double parking 20; parking in restricted zones 44; careless and reckless driving 150; speeding 117; interfering with a fire truck (emergency vehicle) 1; running over a fire hosel; running stop signs 16; running red lights 28; left turns on Ohio avenue 20; intoxicated driving 56.

Other violations: no city automobile license 4; petit larceny 18; mooching on the streets 1; indecent exposure 3; disturbing the peace 107; drunk and disturbing the peace 33; fighting 10; destruction of property 2; prowlers and window peepers arrested 5.

Doors found unlocked by the police 79; windows open 3.

Drunks led the number of arrests made by the police with a total of 400.

Reports made of parts and accessories reported stolen totaled 28;; property taken from parked cars 20.

The report is very extensive and shows the 1950 report in comparison of annual reports for the past eleven years.

Ex-Reichstage Member To Be Guest Speaker For Knife, Fork Club

Gerhart H. Seger, a former member of the German Reichstag, and an American citizen since 1942, will be the guest speaker at the Knife and Fork club dinner next Friday evening, January 26, at the Hotel Bothwell at 7 p. m.

He speaks English fluently, is easily understandable, and reputedly is an unusually good speaker. He was held in a concentration camp of the Nazi regime at Oranienbuerg from which he escaped to Czechoslovakia, later coming with his family at America.

At this dinner meeting the election of four directors will also be held.

Wonju Totters On Brink

Allies Lose City Then Send Patrol Back Into Ruins; Danger In South

TOKYO, Sunday, Jan. 21—(AP)—An allied patrol today stabbed back into Wonju a few hours after elements of an enemy regiment recaptured that gateway town of rubble on the central Korean front.

The major menace, however, was southeast of Wonju. Six North Korean divisions at heavy cost in casualties were trying to maneuver for a break out of the Sobaek mountains to the plains of southeast Korea.

A field dispatch did not say how long the pre-dawn patrol remained in Wonju. The allies were forced out of the town Saturday for the second time in a week.

The dispatch said the patrol found enemy troops working feverishly at Wonju's airstrip a half mile southeast of town. They either were trying to mine the field or make it unusable. The account did not say whether the patrol ran into opposition in Wonju.

A long-waited Red offensive was expected to break out at any moment, but General MacArthur declared "no one is going to drive us into the sea."

General MacArthur, on a visit to the front, said his command would fight on in Korea "just as long as the statesmen of the United Nations decide we should do so."

A reinforced Allied patrol gave up Wonju late Saturday after a sharp fight with superior numbers of Reds who swarmed into the road and rail center from three sides four hours earlier.

The U. N. unit pulled back towards the main allied line, 25 miles south.

The allied patrol had reoccupied the town Friday without opposition.

Reds had forced the U. S. Second Division to pull back from Wonju for the first time last Tuesday.

Seven trans-Korean highways pass through Wonju, making it the gateway to the heart of South Korea.

In their second seizure of the already-wrecked town, the Red infantry struck in regimental force with mortar and small-arms fire.

Allied howitzers, mortars and tank guns roared back. Allied planes made five strikes that knocked out two Red machine guns and some antiaircraft weapons.

But the Communist fire increased and the Reds infiltrated to the southeastern edge of the town and to rail yards in the northwest.

Allied patrols meanwhile reported a rapidly-growing threat of entrapment by mounting Red forces to the northwest, northeast and south.

The Eighth Army announced that Navy pilots killed 2,200 Reds with fire and explosive bombs five days ago in a strike about 15 miles northeast of Tanyang.

The results were withheld, the Eighth Army said, until ground troops reaching the area had counted the burned and broken bodies in the snow.

Allied patrols made increasing contact with Communists on the western front, indicating the time for a third great Red smash might be close.

In Saturday's main air action, Okinawa-based B-29s struck railway centers throughout Red-held portions of Korea with 192 tons of demolition bombs.

Gen. McLaughlin In Military Talk

Major General John C. McLaughlin, of the McLaughlin Brothers Furniture store, was one of the speakers at the Southwest Furniture Buyers Association at their January Market meeting held at the Lake Shore club, Chicago, recently.

General McLaughlin reviewed the military situation and said the change over to a wartime economy will take place faster than the average citizen realizes.

Representatives from 25 stores in the Southwest furniture buyers group attended the meeting at which officers and directors for the year 1951 were elected. Among the directors named was Phillip McLaughlin, also of the McLaughlin Brothers Furniture company.

Eisenhower Extends Hand Of Friendship

Speech Is Relayed West Germans From Frankfurt

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 20—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower extended the hand of friendship to West Germany today and invited the former enemy to help him ward off Russian Communist aggression.

"Bygones are bygones," he said. "I bear no enmity against Germany and especially against the German people. x x x I believe in the essential freedom-loving quality of the German people."

It was one of the warmest speeches the general had made on a tour of investigation around the European nations of the North Atlantic alliance. West Germany is not a member of that alliance, but the west hopes she will contribute both troops and industrial power.

The speech was not delivered directly to the Germans, but to newsmen who saw that his words were relayed. They met him at the Rhine-Main airport.

Gen. Eisenhower flew here from Luxembourg. There he had enrolled Luxembourg's two-battalion army for the thin defense lines and had been entertained by U. S. Minister Perle Mesta.

It was a wet gray day and there was nothing in the reception here to indicate the Germans were glad to see the general who directed their final deefat in World War II.

Strict Security

Even had the Germans wanted to greet him, they would have been prevented. U. S. military security precautions were the strictest seen in this American occupation zone center since the end of the war. A platoon of assassins could not have got through the network of military police. Practically all ground traffic was frozen.

There were no crowds along the street either in Frankfurt or at Heidelberg, headquarters of the European command, where Gen. Eisenhower was driven after his brief airport news confeernce in Frankfurt. U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force units paraded for Gen. Eisenhower at Heidelberg.

Communists called a demonstration at Roemerplatz—a sore of city center in Frankfurt—for next Monday, but the call was followed promptly by a city police order forbidding all public meetings until the general leaves.

Germans have indicated they are not eager to get into uniform again, especially under the supervised conditions suggested by the French and generally accepted by the western allies. American observers here felt, however, that there will be a change of heart within a matter of months and German soldiers will perhaps be drilling within a year.

Gen. Eisenhower made it plain he would be glad to have the Germans on his side.

"I would be entirely a liar if I should say that, at the time of the conflict, I didn't bear in my heart a very definite antagonism toward Germany and certainly a hatred for all that I thought that the Nazis and Hitlerites stood for, and I fought as hard as I knew how to destroy it," he said.

"But, as of this day, I would like to see the German people—I would say all peoples, all peoples—saying to themselves: "We want to be free, we want to live as decent people, we want to live as

Two More Chairmen In Red Cross Campaign

Bert Hathaway, chairman of the Red Cross Fund drive has appointed two more chairmen, James Harms, in charge of window displays and Carl Urban for the court house solicitation.

Urban, who has handled the court house solicitation for many years, has only one time failed to reach the quota.

The Junior Red Cross will be in a window one day making posters to be used in the drive. Harms is making plans to have displays in the various downtown windows telling of the various activities of the Red Cross in helping humanity in war or peace.

Urban is deputy county collector and Harms is agent with the New England Life Insurance company.

Sedalia's Council Extends Official Welcome To Airmen

Pledge Support To Air Force Bomber Group At Air Base

The following is the resolution passed by the Sedalia City Council at a special called meeting, Saturday night, at the city hall. The resolution pledges the support and cooperation of the city administration to the United States Air Force in locating a Medium Bomber group at the Sedalia Air Force base, south of Knob Noster in Johnson county.

Mayor Herb Studer called the meeting after conferring with the Chamber of Commerce committee on aviation and executive committee:

The resolution:

WHEREAS, the mayor of the city of Sedalia, Missouri, has received advice from Senator James P. Kem, Senator Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., Congressman O. K. Armstrong and Congressman Dewey Short that the United States Air Force is contemplating locating a Medium Bomber Air Base in the Sedalia Area providing there are ample facilities for housing, schooling, public utilities and transportation for the Air Force personnel civilian workers and their families; and,

WHEREAS, approximately one thousand new homes have been built in the city of Sedalia, Missouri, since 1946; and,

WHEREAS, the public utilities have been expanded to provide service for the city and are in excellent condition; and,

WHEREAS, the public school system of the city is at present completing a $750,000.00 expansion program; and,

WHEREAS, there are good bus and railroad connections between the city and the proposed site of the Air Base;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, as follows:

Section 1. The city administration believes there are adequate facilities in the city of Sedalia, Missouri, to accommodate the personnel of the proposed Air Base, but that if the same should be found to be inadequate, the city administration will do everything in its power to cause the Resolution Voted In Called Session Saturday Evening

Information on reactivating the Sedalia Air Force Base, south of Knob Noster which was received here Friday, resulted in an official welcome being extended to the United States Air Forces through a resolution passed by the City Council at a special meeting held Saturday night at the City Hall. Sedalia is determined to indicate to the government its desire to see the base reopened to establish a medium bombardment group consisting of 4,500 men.

After meetings at the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce with the Aviation Committee which is headed by E. W. Thompson, director in charge, and members of the exxecutive committee of the C. of C., Mayor Studer Saturday afternoon issued the call for the special session of the Council. Six of the eight council members were able to be present.

At the opening of the meeting Mayor Studer stated: "I have called this special council meeting in order that we may adopt and pass a resolution pledging the support of the City of Sedalia to the Department of Defense in connection with the proposal to locate in the Sedalia area a medium bomber group of the United States Air Force. It is my opinion that this step is necessary in order that we may further show the proper authorities in Washington, D. C., our support and 100-per cent co-operation in this endeavor."

Reed Presents Motion

Motion for the adoption was made by Jim Reed, of the Fourth Ward and seconded by Emery L. Ellsworth of the Third Ward. The resolution was unanimously adopted by the council. Other than Councilmen Reed and Ellsworth present were Pete Menefee and Harry Moore, first ward; Elmer Sumner and Walter Smethers, second ward.

Friday the Chamber of Commerce after receiving information regarding the proposal of reactivation wired Secretary of Air Thomas K. Finletter, and others in Washington assuring them the citizens of this community would co-operate to the fullest extent.

United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., released the information on reactivation shortly before noon Friday and his message was the first to be received in Sedalia by the Democrat-Capital. As soon as the information was relayed to E. W. Thompson, director in charge of aviation for the Chamber of Commerce, he called a meeting of his committee, and a meeting of the executive committee of the C. of C., was called by President A. W. Haller and the two groups conferred on the message.

The committees checked information desired in the message and forwarded their information on to Thomas K. Finletter, secretary of the Air Force, to Senator Hennings, U. S. Senator James P. Kem, Congressmen Dewey Short, Morgan Moulder, Phil Welch and Clare McGee, and O. K. Armstrong.

Senator Hennings in a telephone message, with a Sedalia friend, stated since taking office, one of his first projects was to seek information from agency officials as to the possibility of reactivating the Sedalia Air Base.

Housing, Schools Checked

It was estimated in the messages sent to Washington 953 housing units had been built in this area since 1946 and at present about 65 new housing units are under construction. Further they informed the government, that with the coming spring Sedalia will have completed an extensive program on the schools of the city with $800,000 being spent for additional buildings, expansion of some schools and extensive repairs being made to others, which will take care of the desires of educational facilities.

Stressing on transportation it has been pointed out that the Des Moines, Springfield and Southern Stage lines owned by A. B. Fletcher have a franchise to operate busses between Sedalia and the base on regular schedules which would not only

Demand UN Declare On Aggression

United States In Strong Proposal To That Body

By Francis W. Carpenter

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 20—(AP)—The United States today demanded in a long-awaited resolution that the United Nations brand Communist China the aggressor in Korea. The U. S. declared also the door to a peaceful settlement in the U. N. is open but the time has come to draw the line of free nations against aggression.

To meet British and French objections, the U. S. proposal left wide open the form of punishment, if any, the U. N. may mete out to Communist China and Communist North Korea.

American sources said it did not give General Douglas MacArthur, head of the U. N. field forces, any more authority than he already had to fight the aggressors; specifically, it does not authorize American planes to bomb Red China.

India's Sir Benegal N. Rau, fresh from Paris talks with Prime Minister Nehru, attacked the proposed resolution as a "disastrous course" to which India is opposed. He said Peiping's reply to last Saturday's cease fire appeal, construed by Washington as a flat refusal, was not actually a rejection and it offered further room for negotiations. The committee adjourned after Rau spoke until Monday at 3 p. m. EST.

On the direct order of Washington, Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate, put before the 60-nation political committee of the General Assembly the final form of a resolution which has been days in preparation. American sources said Britain and France would vote for it.

Chief Provisions

Key points of the resolution are:

1. A decision by the General Assembly that Communist China has engaged in aggression in Korea.

2. Affirmation by the Assembly of U. N. determination to continue its action in Korea to meet the aggression. This backs up General Douglas MacArthur's statement in Korea today that the U. N. armies will stay in Korea "as long as the statesmen of the United Nations decide that we should do so."

3. A call on all countries and authorities to continue to lend every assistance to the U. N. action.

4. A call on all countries and authorities to refrain from giving any assistance to the aggressors in Korea.

5. Appointment of a committee made up of members of the U.N. collective measures committee to consider additional measures and to report on them to the General Assembly. The Americans first wanted recommendations but the British and French urged a thorough and careful approach to punishments and the resolution was watered down accordingly.

As the U. S. resolution went before the delegates, members of the 12-nation Asian and Arab group were reported putting the final touches on a proposal they expect to put up next week. It provides for another attempt at a cease-fire with Communist China, which already has turned down three definite U. N. offers for an end to the fighting to be followed by negotiations.

A talk on a public health program for Sedalia will be made by Mr. Payton who will also show a film.

Quick Trial To Cook Sought

Confession Made By Terrorist To Six Slayings

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20—(AP)—Oklahoma county — where William E. Cook, Jr., started a five-day trip of terror that ended in six killings—prepared today for a quick trial of the Joplin, Mo., man.

Cook, 23, confessed to federal authorities he shot to death six persons including the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Ill. He is being brought here by U. S. marshals from San Diego. His train is expected to arrive tomorrow.

Preparations are being completed to keep Cook, who was captured in Mexico last Saturday, under 24-hour surveillance at the Oklahoma county jail. Under an agreement with the county, all federal prisoners are kept at the jail.

Sheriff Bob Turner said Cook would be placed in a hospital cell where a jailer could watch him at all times.

"I'm going to put three iron chains and three separate locks on that cell," Turner said. "I can't take any chances on him escaping, I'd never hear the end of it."

A grand jury has been called here for Tuesday to indict Cook. He will go on trial as soon as possible in February, U. S. District Attorney Robert Shelton said.

Made A Confession

Shelton pointed out that although Cook confessed the slayings, he still would face a jury trial. Cook is charged with kidnaping the Mosser family with intent to do bodily harm—a charge that can carry with it the death penalty if recommended by the jury.

Cook made his confession to FBI agents at San Diego, where it was released yesterday.

He said he kidnapped the Mosser family Dec. 30—his birthday —, shot them to death Jan. 2 near Joplin, Mo., and dumped their bodies down an abandoned mine shaft.

Cook went to California where he said he shot to death salesman Robert H. Dewey of Seattle, Wash.

Gen. Eisenhower Be Able To Make Exhaustive Report

In Paris, has been accompanying Gen. Eisenhower to all the European capitals, as the Atlantic Pact Commander makes his preliminary exploration of what each country can supply in manpower and armament. Here Grover gives some sidelights on the tour.

By Preston Grover

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Jan. 20—(AP)—When Gen. Eisenhower gets back to America he will be able to make a fine report on the appearance of European airports, the inside of government buildings and the quality of hotel beds.

During nearly two weeks of touring of Atlantic treaty capitals he has had scarcely a free hour for anything like sightseeing. There was on exception. He slung his camera over his shoulder one sunny morning in Lisbon and went out alone to see and photograph the sights.

The trip is one that would tire the toughest, and Eisenhower is no exception. Ordinarily he refuses to work Sundays but he abolished that rule on the trip. By the time he reached London after the first week of one-night stands he was showing signs of fatigue. So were the dozen staffers who have had to keep pace with him and write voluminous reports on what came out of their meetings.

The hardest working aide is Warrant Officer Jack James Good, who has no home except in a suitcase but says brothers and sisters live in Pittsburgh.

Strongly In Demand

Good was given one day's notice that he was going on the trip. He was living in army quarters near Washington. He loaded all his personal things into his automobile, parked it in a parking lot and telephoned his brother to come and get it. An automobile snatched him out to the plane and since then he has seen only the inside of the big Eisenhower Constellation and the inside of hotel rooms. As a confidential army stenographer and clerk he is in heavy demand. Cars race him from the plane to the improvised hotel room office, and at the last minute before departure, race him from the hotel to the plane.

Several of the party agreed that the prettiest girls they had seen were in Copenhagen and Oslo but Warrant Officer Good had no opinion:

"I don't know anything about it. No girls have walked through my room."

Two days ahead of Eisenhower's arrival an advance party moves in to help prepare the program. They usually find that a host of formal receptions have been planned. Eisenhower has asked that all of them be skipped because they take so much time.

"This is a business trip," he insists.

The advance party has found it no easy job to talk officials out of the receptions, especially when invitations have been sent out. One advance party member hit on a workable forumla for getting quick cooperation. He tells the local committees:

"If this were your general I would work him through a lot of receptions. I wouldn't mind wearing him out. If this were my general, I would let you go ahead and wear him out. But remember, this our general."

Warm emphasis on the "Our" turns the trick.

Speeches "Off Cuff"

Eisenhower makes his little speeches to the press "off the cuff," without script, but newspapermen following the tour soon found they could learn what trouble he had encountered.

In Holland, for instance, officials don't want to spend money on armament that would slow down their social program. When he spoke to the Dutch reporters he remarked that everybody wanted sick benefits and higher standards of living, but protecting the country from an enemy came first.

Aboard the plane enroute to the next town Eisenhower begins dictating and writing reports of what he has found and what should be radioed to Washington. For this he wears glasses.

When the work is finished in time he and his chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, round up two of the staff for a game of bridge. Gruenther is far the best aboard.

Reports that Eisenhower had landing trouble at Copenhagen and Oslo were disputed by Capt. Bill Draper of Silver Springs, Md., commander of the plane.

Fog hugged the airport in both places but he said the plane followed normal procedure in circling the field to get radio bearings and then landed without trouble.

On one lap Gruenther suggested a pool at $1 a head on the total number of miles to be flown from Washington and back again. Most guessed about 13,000 miles, but Eisenhower's guess was 4,000 miles less. Gruenther examined the figures his chief had put down and then pointed out a whopping error.

"Your trouble is," he jibed, "you can't add."

Guest Musicians At Lincoln School

A special program consisting of an hour of entertainment was presented at the regular assembly of the Lincoln school at 11:00 o'clock Thursday morning.

The program, which was in the form of a musical was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wallace, originally of Spokane, Wash., and of the national assembly of schools of Los Angeles, Calif.

It consisted of a series of old familiar tunes, including a rendition of "The Bells of St. Mary's" played on Swiss hand bells and presented by both Mr. and Mrs Wallace. The bells were of brass with leather handles and all 36 were imported from Switzerland.

"Dixie Land" was played backwards by the couple on the triple octave chimes, an instrument costing $5,000, weighing 150 pounds and standing seven and one-half feet tall. It is one of the 10 or 12 such musical instruments in use in the world.

"Winter Wonderland," "Jack Frost" and others were also presented by Mrs. Wallace at the electric remimba-harp, a native instrument of Mexico and other Latin-American countries.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have spent the past seven weeks presenting similar musical programs in Missouri schools. Three or four are visited each day and Mrs Wallace stated that it requires approximately eight weeks to cover each state of a given area. Three of the five years required to give complete coverage of the entire territory have been completed.

The couple travels in a trailer home and the musical instruments used in their work are carried in a trailer house mounted on a large trailer base.

The guest entertainers were introduced by E. V. Wolkey, school principal. Next week Mr. and Mrs. Wallace will tour Oklahoma.

Most of Mason-Dixon Line Where It Should Be

By Paul West

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 20—(AP)—The Mason-Dixon line is still there—or most of it anyway.

The state of Maryland has just finished the first complete survey ever undertaken since it was marked out by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon between 1763 and 1767. The southern boundary of Delaware, surveyed by a colonial commission in 1750, also was rechecked for the first time.

Both original surveys were ordered after a series of colonial commissions had sought to settle long-standing boundary differences between Maryland and Pennsylvania.

"The monuments marking the boundaries are remarkably intact," said William H. Bayliff of the Maryland Board of Natural Resources, "but something must be done to restore the lost markers."

Many of the limestone monuments imported from England have decayed to such an extent that they now look like ordinary slabs of stone, Bayliff said. "You can hardly recognize the crests of William Penn and Lord Baltimore any more."

The square monuments, about five feet high and a foot in width, were set up every mile of the Mason-Dixon line and at five-mile intervals on the older colonial boundary. Some have been covered with underbush or stolen; some have fallen or been thrown into lakes.

This has given citizens a great deal of satisfaction. If approached by a Maryland game warden or tax collector, a "bi-state citizen" can claim allegiance to the state of Pennsylvania. When a Pennsylvania official comes along, the border dweller becomes a Marylander.

Lack of Authority

Maryland has no authority to set up new markers along these boundaries, Baylif complained. "The adjacent states must cooperate however, we don't want to push them into anything until we know just what the situatiion is."

The Maryland legislature last year appropriated $3,000 for a preliminary survey and report. Bayliff expects to have his report ready for Governor McKeldin about the middle of February.

The 200-mile east-west boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania seems to be in the best condition. New markers have been added to this line, which was checked at the turn of the century. Of the original 216 monuments all but two have been accounted for.

"As a matter of fact we just dug another monument out of the ground. We received hints there might be a lost marker there, so we poked around with a rod until we found it," Bayliff said.

"Of Course two of the markers we've accounted for are not of much use to us. One is in Conowingo Lake, part of the Susquehanna river; another is in the Youghiogheny reservoir in Garett county."

The last 35 miles of the Mason-Dixon line which separates Pennsylvania and West Virginia has not been checked. Maryland paid Mason and Dixon for surveying this stretch in mistaken belief it bordered on its territory.

Mason and Dixon stopped at Dunkard Creek, the terminal point, because of trouble with Indian guides and workers. According to a journal kept by the two men, their Indians "would not proceed a step further" after encountering a warpath of the Shawnee and Delaware tribes.

Some Markers Lost

The north-south division between Delaware and Maryland should have 95 markers. Some of these reportedly were lost as far back as 1850.

"They're still lost," Bayliff said. "However, we've found all but five of the original number on this line."

The southern tip of Delaware on the Eastern shore of the Chesapeake Bay was pegged-out at five-mile intervals. Although seven monuments should have been erected, only six were put up. The colonial surveyors found the exact center of the border fell in the Pocomoke river. They were too perfectionist to put the center stone up on one or the other of the banks.

These monuments are a little obsolete even if you can read them. The stones facing Delaware did not exist in 1750.

The new surevys were made by a Johns Hopkins student who recieved his draft notice just after completing the long trek and an optometrist who, according to Bayliff, "prowls around the border as a hobby."

Stressing the need for restoration, Bayliff pointed to the original declaration drafted by a colonial commision which states: "Moreover it shall be recommended by the respective proprietors of the said several provinces and counties, forthwith to pass acts of legislature for the visitation upon certain fixed days, at least once every three years, and for the continued reparation of the said boundaries that no dispute may hereafter arise concerning same."

Although a three-year check might be overdoing things, Bayliff agrees in principle. He thinks a survey should be made more often than every 300 years.

NOVEL HAT—This John Frederics creation is called "Benedictine" and is of gold mesh veiling studded with topaz brilliants made into a little Padre with a sling veil.

Dispute Fails to Bar Trade

JAMMU, Kashmir—(AP)—While all is quite on the 800-mile-long Pakistan cease-fire line in Kashmir, people on both sides have organized an "underground" mail service, linking the Indian and Pakistani-held parts of the disputed state.

Simultaneously, barter trade across the cease-fire line is going on, with agents from the Pakistan side exchange wheat, rock salt, snuff and maize for Indian cloth and rice. Police have been making systematic efforts to check this "illicit traffic" in the mountain terrain.

Quick Verdict of the New-Car Season:
"Smart Buy's Buick"

To modernize the triumphant phrase of an old campaigner—"They came. They saw. It conked 'em!"

In other words, folks are calling this smart-stepping '51 Buick terrific.

Wherever you look, you find reasons for this fervor.

The SPECIAL blossoms forth with a full line all its own — Sedans, Rivieras, Convertibles — new in styling, new in power-to-weight ratio—new in performance—new in thrift — smartest car for its price that Buick ever offered.

The SUPER has everything it takes to make it the standout performer and buy of the middle-price brackets.

And the ROADMASTER literally tops all previous standards of comfort and luxury. You sink hip-deep in double-thick, pillow-soft Foamtex cushions—feast your eyes on new fabrics that have the look and texture of custom excellence.

You can enjoy the sweeping view from the generous glass areas of the '51 Buick to the fullest — for now you can have glare-and-heat-reducing windshields and windows.†

Add to all this the mighty power of Buick's Fireball engine — the superb smoothness of Dynaflow Drive—a ride that's the marvel of the industry—and you can understand why Buick dealers' showrooms are drawing the crowds.

Better go, see for yourself, what all the excitement's about.

†Optional at extra cost—available on most models. (Not presently available in California or Massachusetts)

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE* — saves strain on driver, reduces wear on many parts of car • FIREBALL POWER—high-compression, valve-in-head engine gets more good from every drop of fuel by "cyclone" combustion found in no other automobile • PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT—combines smart style and unsurpassed protection • WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS — greater clarity at night • TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—steadies ride, improves driving control • 4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING—cushions ride, saves servicing costs • DUAL VENTILATION—outside air fed separately to right or left of front compartment • SELF-ENERGIZING BRAKES—hydraulic—multiply pedal-pressure five times at brake drum • DREAMLINE STYLING—tapered, car-length fenders, gleaming sweepspears on most models

Plus: Self-locking luggage lid, StepOn parking brake, two-way ignition lock, Safety-Ride rims, Hi-Poised engine mounting, Body by Fisher

Owners Get Awards But Eutrants Get Ax In 1951

By J. R. Anderson

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 20 —(AP)—A contest in which one-fifth of the 16,000 entries get the ax will be held here next June.

It's an event calculated to whet the interest of lovers of fried chicken. It's called the chicken-of-tomorrow program.

The purpose is to develop interest in producing a better meat-type chicken and the poultryman who shows a broad-breasted breed of bird with meaty drumsticks is going to be $5,000 better off.

It will be the second such national contest. The first, held at Georgetown, Del. in 1948, was won by Kenneth and Charles Vantress of Marysville, Calif., with a Cornish-New Hampshire cross breed. They will be trying to win again this year.

The second three-year contest was arranged at the suggestion of poultrymen under the sponsorship of poultry organizations, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and a food store chain (the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company) State finals were held in 1949 and last year regional winners were culled.

The national finals this year are limited to 40 breeders who won the previous elimination contests.

The contest requires months to run off. Actually it began Dec. 1, when the 40 finalists started a breeding pen to produce eggs to produce their entries.

Report on Production

Each of the contestants must report on daily egg production of the parent flock until May 1. But this is only one phase of this chicken yard decathlon.

On or before midnight, Feb. 21, each breeder in the contest must have two cases of eggs (total of 720 eggs) in the hands of the University of Arkansas agricultural experiment station here. That's the last time the competing breeders have anything to do with the contest, except collect any prizes their poultry may win From then on, it's up to the fates and poultry specialists at the experiment station.

The station will look after the hatching of the eggs and care of the baby chicks. The chicks, by the timetable, are to be hatched on March 16. Although the hatch sould produce more than 28,000 little peepers, each contestant is limited to 400 entries or a grand total of 16,000 fowl to be adjudged.

The chicks will be reared in special brooders built on the station's grounds near here, just for the contest.

Twelve weeks later comes the big day. On June 11, one out of every five birds will be picked at random, slaughtered and dressed. The 3,200 dressed birds—30 for each contestant — will be checked by the judges So will the live, lucky survivors of the axman's culling. Egg production also counts.

The same day, Monday, a week-long celebration in connection with the contest will begin. On Friday, June 16, the winners will be announced. In addition to the $5,000 first prize, there will be cash prizes for the next seven high ranking entries. Each finalist also wins a plaque.

Sponsors of the contest didn't say what would become of all the chickens.

A BOW . . . AND HOW!—Flower-boy Tony Barnby concentrates so well on making a good impression with his low, gentlemanly bow that he forgets to hand the bouquet to Princess Alice, Countess Athlone, left. The occasion was a League of Pity "Blue Bird" fancy dress party in London.

One Thing Sure Easter of 1951 Earliest Until 2008

By Carroll Arimond

CHICAGO, Ill., — (AP) — If for no other reason, the year 1951 will be distinguished by at least one thing for sure:

Its Easter—on March 25—will be the earliest observance of the holiday in the second half of the 20th century.

The world will have to wait until the year 2008 to celebrate it earlier. That year it will be on March 23, according to computations at the Adler planetarium and astronomical museum, Chicago. The last time it was on March 23 was in 1913.

Although Easter has come to be associated with bunnies, colored eggs and spring fashions, it primarily is a religious feast day. It commemorates the resurrection of Christ on the third day after Calvary. As a religious feast it is governed by the ecclesiastical calendar and is movable, unlike Christmas which always falls on Dec. 25.

Easter can be as early as March 22 and as late as April 25, a variation of 35 days. The last timeit was on March 22 was in 1818. It next will be that early in 2285. It fell on April 25 in 1943; it will not do so again until 2038.

Time Fixing Complex

The method of fixing the time of Easter is complicated and dates back to 325 A.D. In that year the Council of the Christian Churches met at Nicaea (Nice) in Asia Minor. Besides setting forth the Nicene Creed, a summary of the belief in the divinity of Christ, the councilors decided that Easter should be the first Sunday after the paschal full moon which occurs upon, or next after, March 21, the vernal equinox.

Travel underlay this decision. In early times Easter was a day of great celebration in big cities as pilgrims journeyed on foot or in crude transports to take part. They needed moonlight to help them find their way at night, so the reckoning of the Easter date was worked out for their convenience.

If the paschal full moon falls on a Sunday, Easter is observed the following Sunday. The paschal full moon is the 14th day of a lunar month reckoned according to an ancient ecclestiastical computation and not the real, or astronomical full moon.

The 20th century had an earlier Easter twice before. In addition to March 23 in 1913, it fell on March 24 in 1940. It will be on March 23 again in 2008 and March 24 in 2391.

Hal Boyle Reports from Korea

(For Hal Boyle)

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA —(AP)—"I haven't exactly been on a Sunday school picnic," said the sergeant as he put the newspaper down.

He had just read of a Defense Department proposal to give "hazard pay" to soldiers and marines who were "in front of regimental headquarters" in the Korean war.

Under this plan, Master Sgt. Olin Wilkinson, of Port Townsend, Wash., and San Diego, Calif., would receive no such battle bonus, for he is with the headquarters company of the 23rd Infantry regiment of the 2nd division.

(In drafting legislation for combat bonus pay, the Defense Department anticipated Sgt. Wilkinson's complaint. The proposed bill would apply both to troops engaged in direct battle with the enemy—as the sergeant was—and to other men who serve in immediate support of combat forces. Further the bill stipulates that all servicemen killed or injured while in actual combat or in direct support action would be entitled to the pay regardless of their period of combat duty. Those who are not casualties must have at least six days of combat in any month to qualify.)

Yet the regimental command post where Wilkinson serves as operations sergeant has been under repeated attack in Korea and he has won both the Silver Star and the Bronze Star for valor in combat.

Furthermore, the command post has suffered 40 per cent combat casualties since the division landed in Korea in August.

"Maybe that doesn't add up to hazardous duty," Wilkinson said, "but I don't think any of those bullets that were flying around us were kidding."

"Last August our regimental CP was in the very front line defense of Taegu. On August 31 four enemy divisions overran the 2nd division on the Naktong river and 150 members of the CP were in the thick of the battle.

"In another sector of that same front all the cooks, clerks and supply people were assigned to front line positions. We stopped 17 Communist attacks in 15 days.

"Then on Sept. 29 at Hyopchon our regimental command post was again on the front lines."

Sgt. Wilkinson won the Silver Star in the engagement. He ran under heavy fire to an American tank, manned its guns and killed 50 North Koreans singlehanded.

"Three days later," Wilkinson went on, "our CP was under fire at Anui—shell fire that was so intense it killed six officers and wounded 25 officers and men in one hour."

During that hour Wilkinson won the Bronze star for carrying three of the wounded to safety.

"But we had our biggest excitement later in November when our CP was the most northerly advance unit of the entire Eighth army," said the 5-foot-6-inch, 130-pound sergeant. "That was during our advance toward the Yalu river. For two days the officers and enlisted men of the CP had fought on the front lines. The second night the Chinese overran our command post.

"They came right into the tent and shot the place up. They shot holes in the chairs and even shot the map off the wall. They killed or wounded 17 officers and men of the CP. Lt. Peter B. Bennett (of Sebastopol, Calif.) was sitting right in that chair when four bullets hit him. (Bennett now is recovering in California.) Maj. John B. Dumaine (of Bedford, Mass.) clobbered a Chinese with the butt of his revolver. I killed two with my carbine.

"Officers and men in our command post had a pretty busy time before the withdrawal through Kunu pass. They fought in foxholes three days and nights. And our command post helped the regiment fight the rearguard action when the 2nd division came down that pass.

"I feel the fellows in our COP should draw some of that hazard pay. Personally, I won't feel safe until I'm back in the United States."

Dumaine's wife and one daughter live in Olympia. Wilkinson's wife and son and daughter live in Port Townsend.

Friendly Flintlock

An old flintlock rifle, bearing the date 1839 near the hammer, is buried through the trunk of an oak tree at Chehalis, Wash. It has been said that the rifle was placed in the fork of the young oak as a friendly gesture after peace had been made with the redmen.

KID SERGEANT — Sgt. James E. Ward of Greensboro, N. C., did a man's job as a combat infantry leader for six months of the Korean war. But, now the Army will discharge him because they found out he's just 16 years old—too young even to be in service.

Audiometer Use of Schools In Sedalia

Guy Snyder Buys One For Use In Checking Hearing

Sedalia schools needed an audiometer, which is an apparatus for the testing of the hearing of children, and Mrs. John Murrell tried to interest some of the clubs in buying something that she, as school nurse, felt to be very necessary. But for one reason or another nobody seemed to want to spend the $345.00 it took to buy one, so Mrs. Murrell just went on talking and hoping that somewhere, somehow she would eventually get an audiometer, and she did.

The audiometer arrived Thursday and is a gift to the schools of Sedalia and Pettis County of Guy Snyder.

Guy Snyder, who is the owner of the Interstate Studios here, is interested in the welfare of children and one day his wife came home and told of talking to Mrs. Murrell who had mentioned the need of an audiometer. Mr. Snyder remembered an incident of someone he had known whom he thought was stupid, they just didn't seem to grasp things. Later he found the person wasn't stlupid at all, they just did not have normal hearing. The hearing may not be too bad, even be 90 per cent normal, Mr. Snyder pointed out, but the ten per cent defect in their hearing may make them miss the important part of conversations or talks.

So Mr. Snyder decided right then and there that here was a project that should be taken care of immediately and told his wife that they would buy the audiometer for the children of Sedalia and Pettis county schools. That was several months ago and although the audiometer was ordered at that time it did not arrive until Thursday.

Defects Be Remedied

The audiometer is for screening to see if a child has normal hearing, and it takes about a half minute per child. Then those who do not have normal hearing are given a more thorough test and referred to some doctor for examination

Such machines are in most progressive schools, Mrs. Murrell said, and one has been needed here for a long time. The importance of the machine, Mrs. Murrell stated, is the fact that if hearing defects are discovered in childhood they frequently can be remedied. Often slow children are those who have a defect in hearing or seeing and they are not able to understand the things that are being taught so they are considered slow, when they are not slow at all, Mrs. Murrell said They develop the feeling of being slow as they go along in school. If the teacher knows of the defects, too, she can put a child with defective hearing or vision in the front seats of the school room.

"If this will help even one or two children to overcome hearing defects that will affect then entire lives," said Mr. Snyder. "The audiometer will be worth the money."

Thailand Denies Opium Traffic

BANGKOK — (AP) — Thailand claims she is innocent of responsibility for the opium trade in this region of Southeast Asia. Nai Vorakan Bancha, Minister of Foreign Affairs, told newsmen here Thailand would be able to prove this conclusively before the International Narcotics Commission.

Nai Voakan said the opium trade between Burma and China is now coming through Thailand because of the war conditions in Indochina which forced a change of the smuggling route. He added that growing and transport of opium is illegal in Thailand.

take care of civilian employees but military as well. Mr. Fletcher only recently informed the Chamber of Commerce he was well equipped to put busses into operation in a matter of a few hours.

Friday evening as soon as the newspapers reached Sedalia homes the phones at the Chamber of Commerce began to ring and informing the C. of C. of various vacant apartments, some which have been closed for several months, which owners said they would be willing to rent if the base should be opened.

A Business Stimulant

A. W. Haller, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said he anticipated the needs of the government could and would be fullfilled through the cooperation of Warrensburg, Knob Noster, Clinton, Windsor, LaMonte with Sedalia. "The word of reactivation of the base is a real stimulant to business in Central Missouri," Haller said.

The SAAF, to have been vacant for so long is in exceptionally good condition. There still remains a large number of barracks which when not too extensive repairs are made can be put to immediate use. The several large wooden hangers will need some repairs, but can be used as soon as stored grains are removed.

The water system is in excellent condition having been kept in operation the past years by the fire department which has been taking care of field in maintenance and used for fire protection. There have been from eight to fifteen employes on the field ever since it was vacated by the Air Force.

The sanitation system is in good repair and on a twenty-four hour notice can be put into full operation.

Power Lines Still Intact

As to the power needs the electric lines which fed the base during World War II are still intact, and the Missouri Public Service Co., only recently built another power line which if needed can also be used to supply power to the base.

The streets on the base which are of blacktop are in fairly good repair.

The four runways which are 7,200 feet in length, with interlocking taxiways and parking aprons are in excellent conditions. Only minor repairs are said to be necessary to put them into first class condition.

The Sedalia Army Airfield was completed in October 1942 at a cost to the government of $10,509,000 and was used as a Troop Carrier training base as well as a base for training glider pilots.

It was declared surplus in 1947 and transferred to the War Assets Administration which disposed of some of the properties In 1948 the sale of personal and real estate properties was suspended by the WAA. The following January the base was transferred from the WAA to the Department of Air on orders from the then Secretary of Air Stuart Symington.

A Standby Since 1949

Since January of 1949 the base has been standby under the Air Force who maintained the fire department for protection of the property.

Air Force officers who have inspected the local base from time to time have always praised the installation as to runways, location and weather conditions.

May Outlaw Hadacol Down In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 20—(AP)—The makers of Hadacol, the highly publicized patent medicine, had better start figuring out a way to cure a new kind of ill—legislation.

A member of the Arkansas General Assembly, Rep. Golden F. Moore of Lonoke county, said here today he plans to offer a bill in the House which would outlaw the sale of Hadacol in Arkansas.

Moore's measure would ban the sale in Arkansas of all patent medicines which contain more than 10 per cent alcohol by weight. Hadacol contains 12 per cent alcohol.

Burning Flues Cause Of Fire Alarms

Two burning flues and a grass fire were the causes for three runs made by the Sedalia fire department Saturday.

The first call was received at 11.06 a. m. to the residence of John Grantsky 506 West Third street, where a burning flue set fire to the roof. Damage of $10 resulted. At 1:07 o'clock Saturday afternoon another burning flue at the residence of Curtis Byrd, 109 West Ham avenue resulted in slight damage. A call was made to the lot by the KDRO broadcasting station, 2100 west Broadway, at 2:34 p. m. due to a grass fire. No damage resulted.

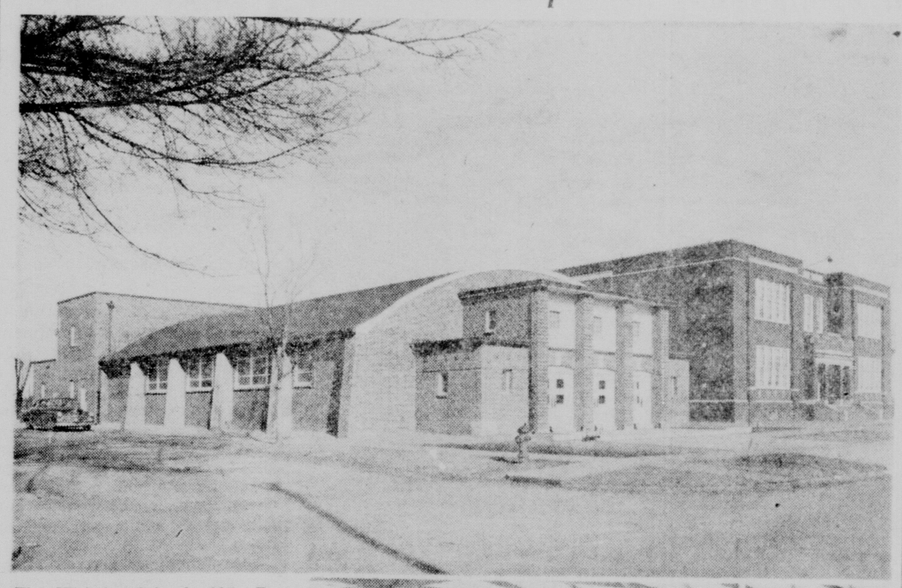
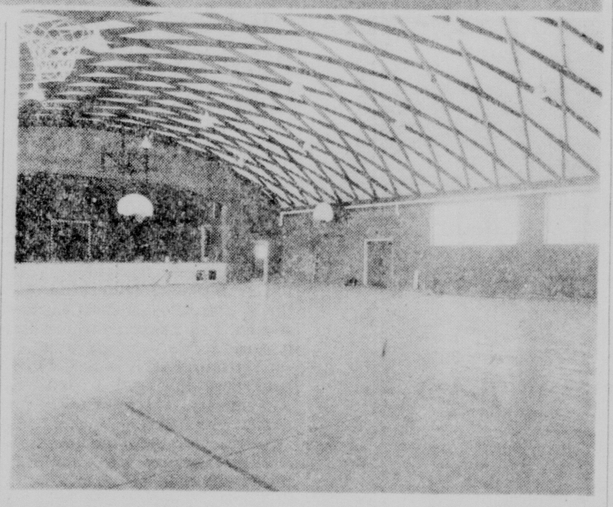
Whittier School Auditorium Completed





(Padgett Photographs)

The Whittier School 907 East Sixteenth street will officially receive its new auditorium which was completed in the past few days as a part of the $800,000 building and expansion program of the Sedalia School system. The new building is a welcome addition to the public schools which will provide facilities for both students and the public in Southeast Sedalia.

The building is 60 by 100 feet equipped with a large gymnasium, stage and two shower rooms. The gymnasium portion of the building is 58 by 80 feet and the stage is 24 by 20 feet.

To Have Entertainment

Plans for official acceptance or to put the building into use for the first time are underway by the Parent-Teachers of Whittier school. The Association plans to have entertainment in the building on Friday night January 26. The gymnasium will take on the appearance as a "midway" for an elaborate winter carnival program where, shows, games and other amusements will be provided through the evening.

The P.T.A. plan to hold monthly parties, dances, sales and banquets through the remainder of the school year. Monies obtained through these entertainments will be used to pay for the stage curtain, and to put other equipment in the building. Through the efforts of the School Board, teachers, and the P. T.A. much is being accomplished in providing better facilities for the children.

A beautiful light green velour stage curtain has been purchased by the P.T.A. at a cost of $663.70. To meet this expenditure the Whittier P.T.A. has planned the above series events hoping the results will also be able to take care of the curtain and add other desired facilities in various types of equipment.

The Whittier gymnasium building is the first building of the expansion program to be completed. It was said that other buildings which have been under construction will be completed within a short time. Several buildings will be turned over to the school board within the next two weeks.

Feels More Troops Be Sent

The thing considered by American officials as most likely to bring the Germans in would be the presence here of an increased number of American troops.

Gen. Eisenhower assured the Germans that he felt more American troops will be sent here.

His one meeting with German officials will be on a social level. About three score Germans, including Adenauer and Schumacher, have been invited to a reception for Gen. Eisenhower Monday night at the home of John J. McCloy, U. S. high commissioner

Tonight he was a guest at dinner with a small group at the home of Gen. Thomas T. Handy, commander of American troops in Europe. Sunday he will rest in Heidelberg. Monday morning he will meet officers of the First Division in Darmstadt and during the afternoon he will confer with McCloy and other high commission officials.

He will leave Tuesday for Paris for a brief stay and then will take off for Iceland, Ottawa and Washington.

Grant 'Phone Hike In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 20—(AP)—A divided Arkansas Public Service Commission today granted Southwestern Bell Telephone Company a rate increase of $3,605,591 annually on intra-state operations.

The company had requested an annual increase of $4,600,000, approximately $995,000 more than the commission allowed.

Commission Chairman Scott Wood disagreed with his two colleagues on the amount of the increase which should be allowed.

He suggested an increase of $3,177,000 The difference arose over what should be the effective date of the rate base (original or book cost less depreciation reserve) on which the commission said the company should receive a six per cent return. Commissioners Howard Gladden and John R. Thompson fixed the date at Dec. 31, 1950. Wood fixed it at Sept. 30, 1950, when the rate was less.

Mother Of Mrs. Clark, U. S. Treasurer, Dies

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 20—(AP)—Mrs. Ella Neese, 83, mother of Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, treasurer of the United States, died late this afternoon at St. Francis hospital here.

She entered the hospital Sunday for observation.

Survivors include another daughter, Mrs. Ward M. Keller of Manhattan, Kas., who was at her mother's bedside when Mrs. Neese died, and a grandson, Ward Albert Keller, Manhattan.

Mrs. Neese had lived at Topeka the past 42 years. She was born at Twin Mound, Kas. Her husband died several years ago.

Must Soon Act On Draft Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP)—A group of Senators who must decide quickly whether they approve drafting of 18-year-olds apparently are leaning toward the affirmative.

Hundreds of questions asked at a hearing by these members of the Senate Armed Services Committee indicate they regard lowering of the draft induction age from 19 to 18 as a step to take to meet the vaster military manpower needs

Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex), after 10 days of Defense Department testimony on the urgent question of where to get the men for a swift buildup of the fighting forces, told reporters the hearings so far indicated "three possible choices."

He said these alternatives are (1) drafting boys of 18, (2) drafting veterans, or (3) reducing the "minimum safety goals fixed by the joint chiefs of staff."

Veterans now are exempt by law. Men with dependents also are deferred under executive regulations.

Present draft ages are 19 through 25. In proposing to lower the induction age to 18, the Defense Department also has asked Congress to extend the length of draftees' service from the 21 months to 27 months.

Johnson is chairman of a preparedness subcommittee conducting hearing for the armed service group. The subcommittee's decision is not expected for 10 days or two weeks.

The House Armed Services Committee expects to begin hearings Tuesday on the legislation which also calls for a universal training system.

Protest On Rearmament

MOSCOW, Jan. 20—(AP)—Usually well informed western diplomatic sources indicated tonight that the Soviet government has protested once more in the strongest terms to Britain and France the proposed rearmament of Western Germany.

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky earlier today summoned British and French envoys to the foreign office and personally delivered to them notes directed to their governments.

The French and British embassies announced only that the Soviet communicatios were replies to notes sent to Moscow from London and Paris Jan. 5. In those notes the British and French denied charges made by Russia Dec. 15 that the rearming of Western Germany would constitute a serious threat to the peace and violate French and British treaties of alliance with the U.S.S.R.

A Marshall Truck Driver Found Dead

MARSHALL, Mo., Jan. 20—(AP)—The highway patrol said Robert H. Bennett, 24, of Marshall, was found dead on U. S. highway 65 today about five minutes after he was involved in a collision two miles away.

The patrol said Mrs. Helen McDaniels, 31, of Marshall, reported her car collided with a truck seven miles south of here. The truck did not stop.

Five minutes later Bennett's truck was found in a ditch two miles north of the accident scene. Bennett was lying behind it, dead.

Patrolmen said Bennett either fell out or was thrown from the truck when it went into the ditch and the rear wheels ran over his head.

State Moose Officers Hold Meeting Here

The state officers of the Missouri Moose Association met Saturday night at 7:00 o'clock at the Bothwell hotel to discuss plans for the Moose convention which is to be held in Sedalia this coming November. These present were:

Raise $20,324.51 For Chest Fund

A meeting of the Community Chest board was held Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce office with the chairman, Harry S. Naugel, in charge.

Mr. Naugel announced that $20,324.51 of the $29,660.42 budget set was raised with each agency receiving the same amount as in 1949. The agencies and the amounts they will receive are as follows: Mercy hospital, $1,500; Melita Day Nursery, $1,645; Girl Scouts, $3,990; Negro Day Nursery, $1,140; Salvation Army, $4,940; Teen Town, $1,409.51; Negro Teen Town, $760; Boy Scouts, $4,940.

"If every person who gave would have given an average of 25 cents for each of the agencies, we could have reached our goal" Naugel said.

Charge Filing Bogus Claims

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 20—(AP)—The Pryor, Okla., bank depositors scandal spread to Joplin, Mo., and Ada, Okla., today, federal authorities reported here.

Night Club operator Madelyn Green, 29, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Lewis Shaw at Joplin on a charge of making false claim for $1,000 against the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Apprehended at Ada was C. D. Martindale, former Pryor businessman. The nature of his indictment was not immediately disclosed.

Twelve others were previously arraigned, accused of falsifying deposit slips, overdrawing their accounts, forging records, juggling bank balances and filing bogus claims on a $500,000 bank shortage.

U. S. District Attorney Whit Y. Mauzy said W. H. (Bill) McCollough, 49, former bank executive serving a 10-year prison term for the embezzlement two years ago, master-minded the scheme "while winding up his business" before imprisonment.

Amputee Loses Fingers Now

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 20—(AP)—Nineteen-year-old Pvt. Hubert Reeves, whose feet were amputated Jan. 12, lost all the fingers and the thumb of his right hand today.

A victim of frostbite suffered on a Korean battlefield, young Reeves still faces possible removal of all his fingers and the thumb of his left hand.

Army surgeons at Percy Jones hospietal, who first thought they could save all but the first two joints of the fingers on Reeves' right hand, now say that fingers of the left hand are showing life and it may be possible to save a portion of them.

Originally surgeons reported complete removal of left hand fingers and the thumb would have to be to the last joint (first knuckle).

The young soldier's father joined the boy's mother here today, coming from their Joliet, Ill., home. The mother saw her son through his first operational ordeal, but the father, a roofer, had to stay home because of inadequate finances. He is D. Hubert Reeves.

Col. Hubert Berwald, chief of surgical services at Percy Jones, said young Reeves' condition was "very good" following today's operation.

Dance So More Might Walk

March Of Dimes Benefit On Night Of February 3

Saturday night, February 3, 1951. That's the date—don't forget it. That's when all Pettis county will dance so that more victims of polio can walk.

The "March of Dimes" benefit dance is sponsored this year by the Sedalia Federation of Labor and the Sedalia Federated Shop Crafts. These two organizations are taking complete charge of the dance. They are paying for the music, which, incidentally, will be furnished by Lee Brandt's orchestra. They are making arrangements for the use of Convention Hall. They are paying for every item of expense connected with the dance. They are doing this so that every penny of every dollar collected can go to aid in the fight against polio.

Committee Named

William Donath, president of the Sedalia Federated Shop Crafts and R. C. McVey, president of the Sedalia Federation of Labor have appointed an arrangements committee composed of Norbert Brosch, electrical workers, and Harry Moore, carpenters. The Publicity committee is William Dunlap, boilermakers, and James Cornwall, radio engineers. Emmet Sullivan is in charge of the tickets, which were donated by the Sedalia Typographical Union.

Not only the admission price of $1.00 per couple goes to the March of Dimes, but the proceeds from the hat check concession go to swell the amount collected, as well. This concession will be handled by the members of Nu Phi Mu sorority, just as it was last year.

Every member of the Federation of Labor and the Federated Shop Crafts, as well as the Missouri Pacific Women's club, has tickets for sale and they will be available at the door if not secured in advance.

Last year this activity produced $912, from the sale of tickets and $50 from the hat check concession. Mr. Donath and Mr. McVey have set the goal for this year well above last year's totals. They pointed out that the success of the dance depends upon and credit awaits the individual members of the organizations who work and sell the tickets.

The place is Convention Hall on Saturday night, February 3rd. Let's make a "Dance of Dollars" out of the "March of Dimes."

Work Lies Ahead On Large Assortment of Weapons

By Howard W. Blakeslee
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—Establishment of the new atom-testing range in Nevada indicates we are working toward atomic explosives for the entire range of war weapons. Success would mean a new line of weapons to substitute gradually for ordinary explosives.

The goal appears to be a variety of weapons smaller, more compact, lighter in weight, more easily delivered. Not only bombs which can be delivered by many rather than by just a few types of planes, but war heads delivered by many other methods for many other purposes.

The virtually universal belief that there can be no atomic explosion except a big one is not even historically correct. The British A-bomb report, issued simultaneously with the American Smyth report, revealed that there is a smaller explosion.

American experts said nothing about this possibility. But last August's U. S. government publication, "The Effects of Atomic Weapons," officially acknowledged this. Both the British and the American reports used the same term—atomic fizz.

The British went further—saying this A-explosion might be little different in energy than conventional explosives. That rating seemed to wipe out worth-while military uses, especially because it seemed to imply that nothing except a full-size A-bomb could fizz, and that would be a sheer waste. But the rating did not wipe out the scientific possibility that further study might show how to control a fizz to get an explosion somewhere between an A-bomb and TNT.

Power Might Handicap

For war, the great power of an A-bomb may be a handicap at times, because many targets are not large enough. From the first, both military men and scientific advisers said an atomic bomb could do greater total damage if the same power could be divided into smaller, separate explosions to spread over a wider area.

The small-explosion A-bomb has not been realized. But A-bombs that can be carried in smaller planes are an official fact. This development has gone almost unnoticed. It is still generally supposed that only the B-29, B-50 or B-36 bombers are capable of carrying an A-bomb. The weights of these three run from 135,000 pounds to more than 300,000 each.

However the navy has two smaller A-bomb carriers. One is the A-J-1, of 55,000 pounds. This is a carrier-based plane. It is furthermore an attack plane. The navy's Neptune also can carry an A-bomb. The Neptune is a land-based plane, which can land and take off from carriers. It is heavier than the A-J-1 attack plane.

Jet of 600 Miles Hour

A new 600-mile-an-hour jet bomber also is being produced, but so far as reported these planes are for "old" bombs.

Still another official fact almost completely overlooed is the "possibility of a small nuclear explosion," to use the words in the January, 1950, semi-annual report of the United States atomic energy commission. The commission told of this possibility in describing an eperiment officially called the Dragon but known also in scientific literature as the Guillotine. It consists in dropping a piece of explosive metal through a hole in a similar piece.

As the falling piece passes its counterpart, a momentary chain-reaction occurs; that is, neutrons which are the sole instigators of an atomic explosion, start their speed-up in splitting atoms. The A-bomb explosion is merely the by-product heat from this splitting.

The momentary chain-reaction likewise produces heat, but not so much. At Los Alamos, where this Dragon or Guillotine originated during the war, the heat never was permitted to go far enough to cause an explosion. The test was used to learn the potency of bomb metals, and the radioactivity showed this before building up to an explosion. The radioactivity builds up before the heat, and it was this preliminary build-up of lethal rays that caused the loss of two lives at Los Alamos during tests of chain-reactions.

The Nevada tests are called controlled explosions. One fact has been published that explains some of the things the bomb-makers may wish to control. This fact is that uranium or plutonium, of greater purity than was available in the early A-bombs, will react faster, with the possibility of more powerful explosions and possibly a smaller weight of critical metal —the lower limit which will explode.

There are other known fields for better controls. Such as damping or delaying the spread of radioactivity until the very last instant before explosion, reflecting the neutrons, and the gun inside the bomb.

The commission calls the forthcoming Nevada explosions "experimental nuclear detonations." That covers a large area of secret possibilities. One certainly has to do with bombs of greater power. A reasonable guess is A-bombs of reduced size and lighter weight.

Some Los Alamos experiments are done by crews a quarter mile away, using remote control and television. A quarter mile is the usual safety limit from a reactor —or atomic oven—when unshielded. The minimum safety limit from an A-bomb explosion is a mile-and-a-half. The limit for a smaller explosion has not been published. The Nevada range will furnish a variety of safety possibilities.

Basic Danish Made Easy

COPENHAGEN — (AP) — A book on basic Danish is due to be published soon by the Scandinavian Book club. The author is Knud Mogensen, a Copenhagen anthropologist, who has been working on the book for two years to make it possible for all English-speaking people to learn the most necessary Danish words.

The book contains 3,000 Danish words, in three chapters, each of one thousand words. A foreigner can easily get along in Denmark if he masters the first chapter. If he can learn 2,000 words he can carry on a conversation with an average Dane.

Airlift Aids: Hospital Plane Built for Comfort, and Turbo-Prop Heavy Transport Join Fleet

Here are sketches of two new transport planes designed for vital jobs in the Military Air Transport Service. Above is the new turbo-prop version of the C-124 "Globemaster II," heavy cargo plane. Built at Douglas Aircraft's Long Beach, Calif., plant, the artillery-packing plane will have four 5500-horsepower turbo-prop engines, giving it higher speed, payload, rate of climb and operating ceiling that the conventional C-124. Its first flight is scheduled for spring, 1952. Sketch below shows the new C-54M "Utility"—cargo, troop transport, air evacuation—plane designed principally as a comfortable hospital plane, but convertible to cargo uses. (Formerly the MATS has used primarily cargo planes, converted to casualty evacuation by use of litter brackets.) Thirty such "Utility" planes are being built with every detail aimed at patient comfort. Litter-spacing, heat and ventilation, feeding facilities, soundproofing are given top consideation. Red Cross Corner

It feels like spring, looks like spring, and maybe it really is spring, and if it is, that means spring house cleaning, and that means taking off your 1950 Red Cross sticker and getting the window or door all ready for your 1951 sticker. With the appointment of Bert Hathaway as general chairman of the 1951 fund drive, things began to get under way with a good deal of zeal, which is, after all, what we have come to expect from these young veterans who are taking such necessary and vital interest in the life of our community. Division chairmen, many of them veterans, are being appointed and by March the machinery will be in high gear. Our fellow volunteer, Marion Studebaker, will do the publicity, which is much more of a chore than is generally realized. However, Mrs. Studebaker is nothing if not zealous, when it comes to getting ARC chores done. and we feel that the public relations are in good hands. More about these good citizens as time goes on.

Two of our chairmen, Michael Wolfel and Mrs. Elliott Stafford, Jr., have just handed in reports which are heartening and encouraging. From Mr. Wolfel we learn that two first aid classes have been completed by members of our police department, with fellow-member Cecil Smith as instructor. The police auxiliary is planning to have first aid classes, sessions beginning in the next few weeks. In passing, may we remind you again, that in case of air attack all police will be expected, not only to do their duty, but several thousand other things as well, and the Red Cross first aid training is a "must" in being prepared for the "other things". . . Mrs. Stafford has just completed plans for the organization of two classes in home care of the sick in LaMonte, with Mrs. H. H. Wade as instructor. . . . It may be, and probably is, later than we think, but the Pettis county chapter is going to come up on schedule.

Three letters have been received by area office and sent on to the office here, letters that we feel should be reprinted in their entirety. They are in acknowledgement of the Junior Red Cross gift boxes and the first is to the pupils of Mrs. Pinkney Miller, Horace Mann school, from Germany, it is as follows:

"My dear children: You don't imagine in which way we were delighted receiving your marvelous parcel! All the nice things we can use best. We thank each of you heartily for his helping. It is a good feeling to imagine you think as us. I have two little boys of 7 and 4 years. They were enchanted to get so much good soap which here in Germany is too expensive to buy. Thus we thank you once more for all your love and care and are yours sincerely, Frau Rohaus Heslyn."

From England comes this nice note: "Very many thanks for the parcel received for my son Thomas. Also to let you know that the parcel was received intact. Yours faithfully, H. Camley."

Also from England is the third letter, addressed to Mrs. Thelma Cook of Smith-Cotton and her pupils: "Thank you all very much for this box of toys which I have received from the British Red Cross society for redistribution. I have passed it on to Margaret Horton of 17 Great Harry Drive, Coldharbour Estate, Mottingham, Kent, who is one of four children whose Christmas will have been considerably brightened by these small gifts. I have kept your address and I shall ask Margaret to write to you yourself later on. May the New Year bring you all lots of happiness as you have earned by your kindness and thoughtfulness. Yours sincerely, Sidney G. Ramsden."

Just now, there is nothing quite so important as our American-British solidarity. In a small but definite way, the boys and girls of this community are going a long way toward this very solidarity. For the children of today are the voting citizens of tomorrow, and the children influence their parents. So Christmas in England, just last month, was a far merrier Christmas because of the Junior Red Cross gift boxes from the United States. Think that over, because it's important.

Go See It . . For an Inspiration!

You ought to go see the new Cadillac. You ought to walk all around it and look at it from every angle—and you ought to open the door and get in and sit down.

You ought to slide over behind the wheel and look out over that jewel-like dash into the exciting beyond.

And you ought to do this, whatever the car you own today—and whatever the car you expect to own.

For it will lift up your spirits and add to your faith in America's industrial enterprise and productive ingenuity.

You look at those beautiful, flowing lines—and you can't escape the conviction that America's industrial artistry in metals is unsurpassed in all the world.

You look at the fabrics that tailor the seats and cushions —and you realize that America's manufacturing genius is unapproached for bringing luxury into everyday life.

You look at the flawless execution of every structural detail—and you have the comforting feeling that America's industrial craftsmanship is in a class by itself.

But your greatest inspiration is yet to come.

You ask the price of the lowest-priced Cadillac model —and you find that it's easily within the means of hundreds of thousands of American families.

Where else, in all the world—you ask yourself—could there be such a blending of luxury and practicality?

And the answer, of course, is—"nowhere." It's strictly an American "monopoly."

Yes, here is the new standard for the automotive world. It is new in beauty, in comfort, in luxury and in performance.

So come see it soon—and come with your hopes high.

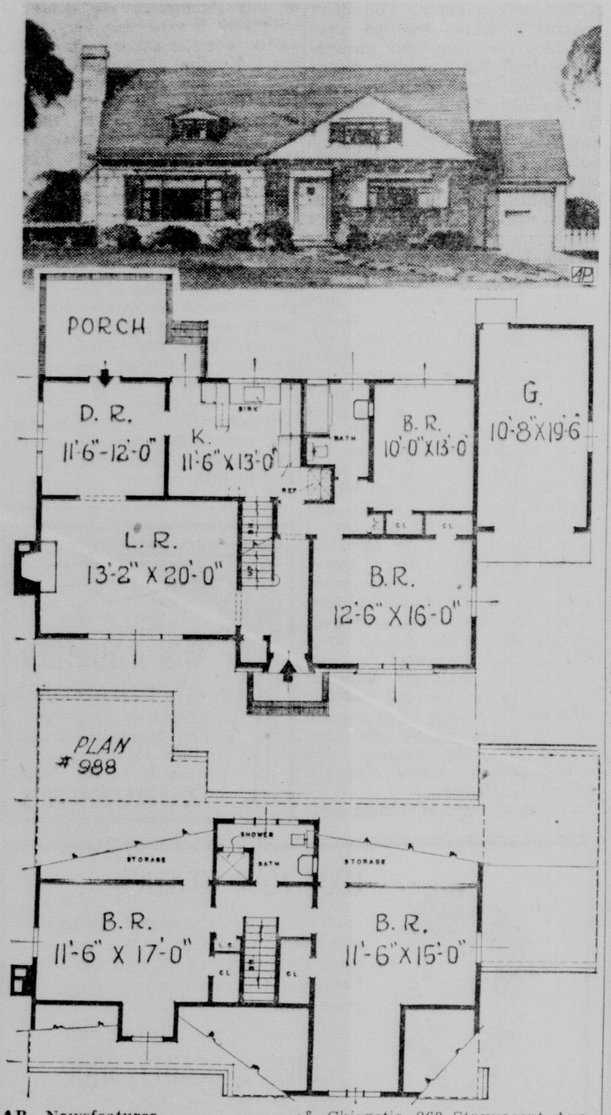
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



AP Newsfeatures

A big hourse in a compact structure, this four-bedroom, two-bath dwelling can be built in stages with the first floor comprising a complete home for a growing family. The second floor can be finished later. This design, the Pacesetter 988, by McMurray & Chirgotis. 968 Stpyvesant Ave., Union, N. J., covers approzimately 1,232 sqquare feet exclusive of garage and porch. It provides a ful basement entered from the kitchen. Its center hall offers convenient acces to all rooms. Both kitchen and dining room have doors to the porch.

ON THE HOUSE

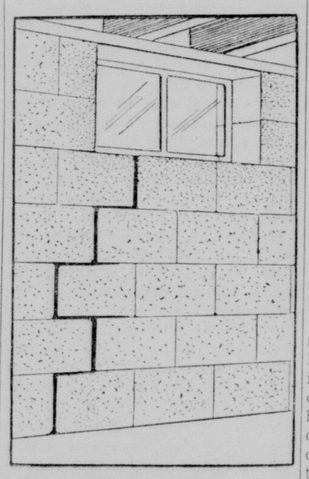
By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

Most of us do not believe in going around hunting for trouble. But there is a good place to make an exception to this rule. That is in your own home. A tour of inspection can save you a lot of headaches, heartaches and pains in the pocketbook.

There's a lot of fun in owning a house. If you want to, you can rest on your oars until an emergency arises and you have to kick in for a new heating plant, paint job, or new roof. Or you can study up on everything from tenpenny nails to British thermal units so you can kibitz the carpenter and heating contractor all in vain.

But the sensible thing to do is to give the old manse the once over and decide on the spot whether it is worth more to have to have the thing fixed by a professional or try to do it yourself. You have to keep in the back of your mind the factor that your time may be worth more to you than the cost of hiring a man to do the job—to say nothing of the cost of having things rectified if you botch th job.

A good place to start looking for trouble is in the basement,



SETTLEMENT cracks in a masonry basement wall will follow mortar joints. They call for attention.

if you have one. The fellow who basks on a radiant heated slab and wonders where he will store his lown mower misses all the fun and mildew that we basement dwellers enjoy.

* * *

So let's start inspecting the farthest cellar corner — around the water meter, where the house main comes in from the street. Odds on, you'll find the pipe and maybe the meter well coated with rust. That's to be expected, because of condensation on cold water pipies. If you want to be especially neat it's a good idea to clean the surface off with emery cloth and give the pipe a good coating of aluminum paint. The same goes for a rusty meter. Makes it easy to see and does a lot to clean up that corner. The famous slogan, "save the surface and you save all," applies to metal as well as to wood.

From the meter on in, you may have copper or brass plumbing, which calls for no attention, but if it is iron and rusty, continue your cleaning and aluminum paint to point where the pipe goes up in the floor or partition. Beyond that point you can ordinarily count on less oxidization because of less condensation.

* * *

You'll find aluminum paint is an excellent insulator, but for real economy all hot water and steam pipes should be covered with thick asbestos overcoats. How to apply these is another story to be discussed later.

To get on with your inspection, check the foundation and basement floor for cracks. If your foundation is concrete block, stone or other unit masonry, look for cracks between joints and any signs of mortar being loose, crumbling, or falling out.

Any spots or streaks of dampness mean leakage. Often minor leaks can be stopped from the inside with new waterproofing concrete paints. On the other hand, may call for excavation on the outside, correction of the cause of settlement, filling of the crack and renewal of exterior waterproofing.

Major settlement cracks usually occur in cases of inadequate footings or construction on filled-in land. Of course, earth tremors and expansion of clay soil also can crack foundations, but construction usually anticipates such hazards in affected localities.

* * *

Much leakage in basements is caused by improper grading and poor drainage outside. Not only should your lawn slope slightly away from your foundation, but the sub-soil should be graded in that direction before top soil is spread. Roof gutters, kept free of dry leaves, are important in keeping excessive water away from a foundation. Every downspout should be connected to an adequate dry well or catch basin located six feet or more away from the foundation, or with a storm sewer.

Sometimes wet spots appear in new basements without much significance. Loose earth filled in around the new foundation allows water to collect in heavy storms and seepage results. As time goes on and grading is finished, this trouble disappears. A well-sodded sloping lawn is a big asset in carrying water away from a house.

Home Beautification Discussed By Club

The Syracuse Homemakers club met Thursday, January 11, at the home of Mrs. Henderson Taylor with fifteen members, one visitor, Mrs. Ernest Homan, and four children present. A covered dish dinner was served at the noon hour.

The vice-president, Mrs. Lewis Smith, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. H. Allison. Mrs. B. A. Bridges repeated the Club Collect and Mrs. R. C. Kirchner led in prayer.

Mrs. Taylor presented the program, "Home Beautification." During the business session, Mrs. Taylor reported the last wool comfort pieced by the club had been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor of Springfield. The club voted to send a potted plant to J. H. Allison who is a patient in the St. Mary hospital in Jefferson City.

Mrs. Raymond Craig and Mrs. Lester Palmer distributed the pal gifts and presented Mrs. Taylor with the basket of hostess gifts. In conclusion Mrs. Lewis Smith led in playing games.

Homes Near Modern Utopia

AP Newsfeatures

In 1950 we began to see the modern Utopia that Mrs. Householder has been waiting for. We have embarked on a push-button era in the home, and double-duty furnishings which are space and time savers.

At the flick of a switch a kitchen gadget can produce a malted milk or an ice-cream soda for a youngster, compartments in the refrigerator freeze an entire week's dinner, garbage disposal units grind up waste matter, dish washers buzz and whir to protect Mom from dishpan hands. Ovens are built at burner height saving weary backs.

Streamlined sectional and built-in furniture are increasingly popular. Nests of tables which lock together can be used individually when necessary, offer space-saving possibilities to a small household. Upholstery which can be removed from its chair frame for cleaning and re-upholstery has made its debut. Arm chairs and ottomans combine to offer the comfort of a chaise lounge, used separately offer two seating units.

Swivel chairs make life easier for the family moving man. Side-saddle chairs built with a graceful concave line over an arm permit a sitter to rest a leg gracefully over the side of a chair.

One three-in-one dining table opens to reveal a felt covered game table. Under the felt cover is a game board and recesses with compartments for chips and glasses.

Foam rubber mattresses, upholstery and cushions eliminate plumping as they retain their shape, are easily aired and cleaned.

Perhaps the greatest changes in the home are being realized in the trend to plastics. New three-dimensional surface and texture effects on plastic film and sheeting impart a depth that achieves improved appearance, feel, styling and color, opening endless avenues for use.

These materials are used in draperies, table cloths, place mats, upholstery and even lamp shades. They are said to be unaffected by mildew, resist oil, grease and alcohol, are wrinkle-proof and non-inflammable.

The realistic three-dimensional surface effects of many of these plastics produce an appearance of linen, ribbon, silk and satin. The resistance to stains and moisture o the upholstery fabrics make them ideal for use in the nursery and children's playrooms.

Lamps are more practical these days. There are swivel lamps which can be moved in any direction, "topsy" lamps which grow and grow.

Project Books to Multi-Workers

The Van Natta Multi-Workers 4-H club met at the school house Monday night.

The meeting opened with the repeating of the 4-H pledge. Roll call was with each member telling how his health yardstick was filled out. All members had the yardstick up to date.

Mrs. Long, community leader, announced the pledge to I. F. Y. E. and council dues. The club also voted to pay for a scrap hook for the librarian, Bonnie Gorrell, to keep for the club.

A Valentine exchange at the next club meeting, will be held. Names were drawn.

Project books and program books were given to leaders and distributed to each member following the business session.

George A. Buchholz, game leader, was in charge of the social hour. Group singing was held, accompanied by Ann Harding, and games were played.

Refreshments of chili and crackers were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wayne Starke and Mrs. Wesley Harding, assisted by Dewey Geiser, Charles Long and Billy Trout.

The next meeting will be held February 19 at the school house. The roll call will be answered with a riddle.

Auto Oils Tested

CHICAGO, Ill. — (AP) — Special oils for automatic transmissions of your new cars get grades of A or flunking in an engine laboratory here. The oils get the "A" only if they pass 15 tests in a tough obstacle course.

The grading is done by the engine laboratory, applied mechanics division of Armour Research Institute of the Illinois Institute of Technology. Auto makers set the requirments needed for long-service, safe oils and Armour tests them as an independent, unbiased agency. Among the tests are ones for viscosity, durability and temperature adjustment.

The railroad's annual bill for crosstie replacement runs at the rate of $250,000,000.

Movies For The Otterville PTA

The Otterville Parent Teacher association met Tuesday evening, January 9 in the Methodist church.

The meeting was opened by the group singing, "God Bless America," led by Mrs. Danney Glenn. Mr. Monroe Neale led in prayer. Mrs. Danny Glenn sang as a special number, "Chattanooga Shoeshine Boy."

The business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Monroe Neale. The program was concluded with the presentation of two films by Charles A. Repp, county superintendent of schools.

The next meeting will be Tuesday evening, February 12. A Founders day program will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Williams, leader.

Moslem Raps Minimum Marriage

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Maulana Abdul Aleem Siddique, Moslem leader from Pakistan, says he is opposed to any legislation which would fix a minimum age for marriage.

He asserted that to put obstacles in the way of marriage would create immorality. "This is not only a religious but a natural statement of facts," he added.

Legislation now is pending before the Singapore legislative council which would fix the minimum marriage age for Moslem girls at 16.

Marriages, Society, Club Activities In And Around Sedalia

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Balke, 415 South Marvin avenue, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Louise to Mr. William S. Grother, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Grother, 106 South Prospect avenue. The marriage will take place February 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, Houstonia, announce the engagement of their daughter Mary Alice to Mr. Port R. Bezner, son of Mrs. Porter W. Bezner of Mexico.

Miss Louise Balke, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. William S. Grother, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Grother, 106 South Prospect avenue, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Balke. The marriage will take place February 14. (Lehmer Photograph.)

Bohon-Coffelt Nuptials

Before an altar setting of poinsettias and gladioli the marriage of Miss Rene Bohon, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Bohon, 323 East Fourteenth street and Mr. Jack K. Coffelt, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coffelt, 156 Summer avenue, was solemnized at 8:00 o'clock in the morning Saturday, December 30, at the St. Patrick's Catholic church, Fourth street and Washington avenue. The double ring service was read by the pastor of the church, the Rev. J. T. Nolan in the presence of 200 guests.

Mrs. J. J. Comer, 605 South Lafayette avenue, at the organ played "Wedding Music," Rossent and Miss Marjorie Chalmers of Independence sang "Ave Maria" by Schubert, "Mother Beloved" by Lord and "Panis Angelicus," Rosseni.

The bride's gown was of pure white satin with fitted bodice and long sleeves. The off-the-shoulder neckline was framed with a ruffle of Chantilly lace and filled in with a yoke of sheer net. The hoop skirt was fashioned with many flounces of satin and lace edged the bottom of the overskirt. Shorter in front the skirt lengthened into a cathedral train which was entirely edged with lace. To a tiara of seed pearls was attached her fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations with a shower of white satin ribbon. Around her throat was a triple strand necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her grandfather Mr. R. E. Ferguson, who gave her in marriage.

Miss Barbara Bohon, sister of the bride of Kansas City, as maid of honor wore a gown of emerald satin fashioned with fitted bodice, buttoned down the back with self-covered buttons, off-the shoulder neckline finished with two folds of satin forming a bertha which tapered to a point at the front and back. Matching green net filled the neckline. Her headdress was a tiara of green satin and she wore long satin mitts of the same shade. Her flowers were red carnations.

Miss Marilyn Stockman of Springfield wore a gown identical to that of the maid of honor even to shade, with matching tiara and mitts and carried a nosegay bouquet of red carnations.

Mr. Donald Eschbacher of Sedalia served as best man for Mr. Coffelt.

Mr. Richard Wiemholt of Sedalia was groomsman and ushers were Mr. Gene Bohon, brother of the bride and Mr. William Pangbur, both of Sedalia.

The bride's mother wore a crepe dress of dusty rose shade with black accessories and her corsage was of white rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother wore a mink-colored crepe dress with April yellow accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ferguson, grandparents of the bride, at their home, 321 East Thirteenth street, at which there were 150 guests. Miss Marjorie Chalmers and Miss Betty Brosch served and Miss Ruth Ann Bohon, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left on a wedding trip through Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas. The bride chose for traveling a green suit with black accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

The bride was graduated from the Sacred Heart high school in this city, attended Central Missouri State college at Warrensburg, two years. She was a member of Nu Phi Mu local sorority and until her marriage was employed in the office of the Town and Country Shoe factory here.

Mr. Coffelt was graduated with a B. S. degree in civil engineering from the Missouri School of Mines in 1950 and is now employed with a corps of engineers in Omaha, Nebr., where the couple will reside.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Noonan, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. James Greer, LaMonte; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wofford, Trenton, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Dittmer, Sweet Springs; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Swope, Knob Noster; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Colson, Sweet Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bohon, Windsor; Mrs. Gladys Barnhart, St. Joseph; Mrs. Lucretia Batke, Kansas City; Mrs. Myrtle Wood, Sweet Springs; Mrs. Ed Bohon, Windsor; Miss Marjorie Chalmers, Independence; Miss Marilyn Stockman, Springfield; John W. Greer, LaMonte and Larry Colson, Sweet Springs.

Bridal Shower For Sue Harris

A miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Sue Harris, who is to be married soon to Sgt. Elmer Lee Whenry, was given Tuesday evening, January 16, by Miss Betty Jean Smetana and Miss Berna Dean Anderson at the Anderson home.

The evening was spent in watching television until the honoree opened her gifts. Miss Harris found riddles inside the balloons she burst giving clues as to where the gifts were hidden.

Guests were Mrs. Paul Harris, Mrs. William L. Beckley, Mrs. Fred Staley, Jr., and daughter, Carolyn; Miss Mary Jane Anderson, Miss JoAnn Merriott, Miss June Kubli, Miss Delores Davis, Miss Lucile Parkhurst, Mrs. Rudy Saunders, Mrs. Leonard Anderson, Mrs. Howard Turner and Mrs. Ann Woodford.

Randall Jessee Sorosis Speaker

Randall Jessee, program director of WDAF-TV, Kansas City Star, Kansas City, and a former announcer of the local radio station, will be the speaker at Sorosis Monday afternoon at the Heard Memorial club house. His subject will be "Television."

Mr. Jessee was born and reared in Excelsior Springs. When he was 20 and 21 years old he was in the Orient, where he worked for the Dollar Steamship Line from Hong Kong to Canton. He attended Missouri Valley college in Marshall and William Jewell in Liberty and was first associated in radio work in Poplar Bluff, later coming to Sedalia where he spent several years. He went from here to WDAF in Kansas City and transferred from there to WDAF-TV in January 1949. The WDAF-TV station was opened October 16, 1949.

Active in many civic projects, Mr. Jessee is fund chairman of the American Red Cross in Clay county, Democratic county chairman of Clay county, a member of the State Athletic Commission, and a member of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity.

Mrs. Kenneth Love, chairman of the Civics committee will introduce the speaker.

Farewell Dinner For Mrs. Hensen

Mrs. Wallace Hensen, who will leave soon for Kansas City to join her husband, who has employment there, was honored Monday evening with a dinner given at the Old Missouri Homestead by her co-workers at the Interstate studio, where she had been employed the past four years.

The dinner was a complete surprise to Mrs. Hensen who was taken to the Old Missouri Homestead by a friend on the pretext of an errand there and when she got inside she found the group seated around the table waiting for her.

Mrs. Hensen was presented with a corsage of a dozen talisman roses and a gift from the employes of Interstate studio.

Present at the dinner were: Mrs. Hensen, Mrs. J. D. McFarland, Mrs. Maxine Russell, Mrs. Michael Sullivan, Mrs. Leo Nold, Mrs. E. E. Howerton, Mrs. Perry Smith, Mrs. Al Domingue, Mrs. Velma Burke, Miss Maxine Noel, Mrs. Lucille White, Miss Mary Alice Dexheimer, Miss Ethel Kullman, Mrs. K. A. Zahringer, Mrs. Gertrude Schilb, Mrs. Goldie Walters, Mrs. Ted Simon, Miss Irene Vaughn, Mrs. Herman Overmier, Mrs. Maurice Wasson, Miss Dorothy Carter, Mrs. Erma Schumacher, and Miss Lorene Hoerman.

Others who were invited but were unable to attend were: Miss Mary Ann Dick, Mrs. Zeda Robinson, Miss Jewell Housel, Miss Gertrude Rehmer, Mrs. Jean McCowan, Mrs. Alvin Buhlig, Mrs. Margaret Thornberry, Mrs. Grovie Nevis, Mrs. Valetta Carroll, Mrs. Paul Mines, Mrs. Laura Ray, Miss Edna Seifner, Mrs. Joe Alderman, Mrs. Minnie Snyder, Mrs. Avery Crouch, Mrs. Aubrey Pruitt, Mrs. Ann Preston, Mrs. Bill Hieronymus and Miss Joyce Holtzclaw.

Miss Noel played the piano during the evening and accompanied the group singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack K. Coffelt, who were married December 30 at the St. Patrick's church. The bride was formerly Miss Rene Bohon, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Bohon, 323 East Fourteenth street. Mr. Coffelt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coffelt, 156 Summer avenue. (Photo by Lehmer Studio).

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Dawson, who were married December 21 at the First Christian church in Sedalia. The bride was formerly Miss Dorothy Jean Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Baker, LaMonte. Mr. Dawson is the son of Mr. Jesse Dawson, of Houstonia. (Photo by Lehmer Studio)

Music Club Program Surprise

A "surprise" program, to be presented by non-members, will be given at the Helen G. Steele Music club on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. The program will take the place of the chorus presentation planned for that date, which has been postponed until April 4th.

A light and entertaining group of numbers will comprise the program. Mrs. Fred Ross will be chairman of the day.

Baker-Dawson Marriage

Miss Dorothy Jean Baker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Baker of LaMonte, became the bride of Mr. Clifford H. Dawson, son of Mr. Jesse Dawson of Houstonia at 8:00 o'clock Thursday night, December 21, at the First Christian church in Sedalia. The Rev. D. M. Bryan read the double ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a gray suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Mrs. Harry Baker, sister-in-law of the bride, was attired in a blue suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mr. Harry Baker, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Mrs. Dawson is attending school in Houstonia. Mr. Dawson was graduated from Houstonia high school in 1948 and is now employed at the Panhandle Eastern pipeline at Houstonia.

Also attending the wedding was Miss Anita Patterson of Sweet Springs.

Church Wedding At Tipton

Miss Annalean Schoen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schoen of Otterville, became the bride of Mr. George Romig, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Romig of Otterville, at 8:30 o'clock in the morning at St. Andrew's Catholic church in Tipton December 30. The double ring nuptial mass was performed by the everend H. J. Breit.

The altar was decorated with poinsettias and other Christmas decorations.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white net with attaching bows over a bridal satin full skirt. The gown had a fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil was attached to a band of orange blossoms and sequins. She wore white satin slippers. Her only ornaments were a locket and a wrist watch, gifts of the bridegroom, and she carried a bouquet of red roses with a shower of white satin streamers.

Mrs. Ernest Woolery, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of light green taffeta and carried a bouquet of yellow roses with light green satin streamers.

Mr. Januarius Schoen, brother of the bride, served as best man.

A dinner for the bridal party and immediate families consisting of 36 guests was served at the bride's home. A three-tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom on top, pink love birds and pink roses with lighted tapers on either side centered the table.

After a buffet supper the evening was spent dancing at the bride's home.

The bridegroom has returned to Fort Benning, Ga., where he is now stationed with the armed forces. Mrs. Romig is remaining in the home of her parents for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. George Romig, center, who were married December 30, at the St. Andrews Catholic church in Tipton, and their attendants, Mrs. Ernest Woolery and Mr. Januarius Schoen. The bride was formerly Miss Annalean Schoen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schoen, of Otterville and Mr. Romig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Romig, of Otterville. (Photo by Cole Studio).

Couple Married January 5

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullin, 1723 South Quincy avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Betty Brown, to Mr. Carl Starke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Evert Starke, formerly of Syracuse.

The marriage took place at 7:00 o'clock Friday night, January 5, in Harrison, Ark., with the Rev. Guy A. Hopper, pastor of the Baptist church in that city, reading the single ring ceremony at his home.

The bride selected for her wedding a dress of navy blue with gray and white accessories.

The bridegroom has just returned from Arabia.

The bride, until her marriage, was employed at the Town and Country shoe factory.

After a wedding trip through Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, the couple will go to San Francisco, Calif., to make their home.

Dinners

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shafer and family, route 1, Sedalia, entertained a group of relatives with a dinner Thursday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pauech and son, Edward, Jr., of Milwaukee, Wis.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pauech and son, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stetzenbach and children, Charlie, Allen Lee, Esttle May and June Irene, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shafer and children, Jo Ann and Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shafer and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Staples and Lavern Stetzenbach were also invited but were unable to attend.

Couples Wed In Double Ceremony

A double wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. E. Greiver at the First Baptist church in Harrison, Ark., at high noon Saturday, December 30, when Miss Doris M. Whiting became the bride of Mr Charles O. Knox and Mrs. Naomi Wheeler was married to Miss Whiting's brother, Mr. Dale M. Whiting.

Miss Whiting and Mr. Dale M. Whiting are daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whiting of Flippin, Ark.

Mrs. Wheeler, now Mrs. Whiting, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jones of route 1, Sedalia.

Mr. Knox is the son of Mr. Charles O. Knox of Beaman, and Mrs. Bill Hauffman of Kansas City.

The brides wore brown suits with accessories of winter white and green and their corsages were of pale yellow baby roses.

After a week-end spent with friends in and near Mountain Home the two couples returned to Sedalia.

Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Whiting are employed at the Lamy Manufacturing company. Mr. Knox is employed at the Bell Telephone office and Mr. Whiting at the Mid-West Auto company.

Elks Dance Saturday Night

The dance held Saturday night for members of the Elks club and their guests was well attended.

Music was furnished by Lee Brandt's orchestra and John Craig, chairman of the entertainment committee announced that dances are also planned for the next three Saturday nights, also with Lee Brandt furnishing the music.

A new 20-inch television set has been installed in the north room of the basement also for the entertainment of the members, and is proving even more satisfactory than was anticipated. This together with the new glass brick bar and the recent redecorating has added greatly to the attractiveness of the club.

D.A.R. Meet Saturday

Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will have a desert luncheon at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, January 27, at the home of Mrs. Chester Wolfe, 909 West Sixth street.

Miss Jessie Browneller will give a talk on "White House Hostesses."

A board meeting will precede the meeting.

Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. C. L. Hanley, Miss Tracey Berry, Mrs. Thomas W. Croxton, Mrs. Harold Dean, Mrs. J. E. Mitchell, Mrs. E. F. Yancey and Mrs. William A. Schien.

Church News

The Congregational-Presbyterian Guild met with Miss Harriet Gold, 211 West Seventh street, at 2:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon at which time the members of the executive board were hostesses.

Mrs. A. F. Scott of the Fifth Street Methodist church gave a book review on "The White Witch Doctor" by Louise Stietors.

Thirty-three members attended the meeting.

The Dorcas circle of the Evangelical and Reformed church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. William Schwermer, who served as hostess with Mrs. Elsie Tuggle as assistant hostess. There were 17 members and three guests present.

As a project for the coming year the circle chose to adopt Ecuador. In place of secret pals for 1951, it was decided to place an extra offering on the dates of birthday and wedding anniversaries.

The next meeting will be February 15th at 2:00 o'clock with Mrs. Harry Brunkhorst, 610 South Harrison as hostess.

The K. J. U. class of the La Monte Christian Church Bible School met at the parsonage with Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Moore on January 17th. After partaking of a contributed noon meal the afternoon meeting was presided over by Mrs. Roy Alexander, the president.

Members answered roll call by telling where and when they first attended Bible School.

The class voted to purchase a coffee urn for use at class meetings and dinners. The church calenders ordered by the class have been delayed because the order was late and will be delivered in March. A fellowship meeting of the entire church and friends will be held in the church basement the evening of February 14th. This will be a pot luck supper and program.

Mr. Moore conducted a Bible study under the title, "What is a Christian."

There were fifteen members and two visitors present. The meeting next month will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Fisher.

When trying to find a border or wall decoration for a game room; did you ever try using regular playing cards? Inexpensive decks can be used and after arranging them as you like either by suits; pairs or as to color, a red one then a black one; paste them to the wall and give the whole border a coat of clear shellac or varnish.

A feature strip painted about an inch wide above and below the cards in red or black would give the border a finished look.

Your Wardrobe
By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

Spring is the Dressiest Season of the year and it is up to you to make the most of it. You will of course look more feminine in dressier clothes and they are particularly refreshing after your more drab winter wardrobe. Some colors such as lilac, pink and navy are especially flattering to most women and should be worn in hats, blouses or perhaps a flower or scarf.

This spring you will find more shades than ever and right now you should start shopping and trying on these different shades that you have never before worn. If you must wear the more tailored suits and basic dresses buy a hat trimmed with flowers or wear flowers at the neckline or waist, but add something gay to each outfit—it will give you just the right start for a new season. With all the international unrest, it is up to the women to look their best and keep up the moral of the men who must help solve these problems.

Banquet By Booster Club

Awards Be Made On Achievements Monday Night

The Missouri Pacific Booster club will hold a testimonial banquet Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Euworth M. E. church honoring their achievement award winners.

William Sugg, mechanical superintendent for the Missouri Pacific of St. Louis, will represent L. R. Christy, chief mechanical officer, who was invited to speak but was in Texas on a business trip. Mr. Sugg will speak on service.

The awards will be presented to employees of the Missouri Pacific shops at Sedalia, who have been active in the field that they are receiving the awards in for the past five years, to be eligible for the award it was necessary to be an employee of the Missouri Pacific at least five years and active in that department in 1950.

It will be the first time that the Boosters have presented awards to their members who have been outstanding in community service.

Mayor Herbert Studer and wife, C. A. Brown, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Brown, and Robert Wall, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Wall have been invited to attend the affair.

Misses Patty Woung and Janet Hamilton will give several tap dance selections, and Aubrey Case and Carl Yessen will give a duet number.

Eddie Kettleson will be toastmaster and Paul Berthoux will give the invocation.

John Dial will play the organ preceding the banquet and also play during the dinner.

L. R. Christy, chief mechanical officer for the Missouri Pacific with headquarters in St. Louis, was a business visitor at the shops the past week.

G. D. Bailey, shop superintendent, was a business visitor in St Louis the past week.

John Lackey, Diesel supervisor for the Missouri Pacific, with headquarters in St. Louis, was a business visitor at the shops last week.

L. L. Francis, apprentice instructor for the Railway Educational Bureau with headquarters in Little Rock was at the shops last week assisting the apprentices with their lessons.

W. J. Knight, assistant general car foreman, who has been off duty for the past few weeks receiving attention in the Missouri Pacific hospital has returned home considerably improved but it will be some time before he is able to return to work.

John Keller, general chairman for the machinists, of Coffeyville, Kas., was a business visitor at the shops last week.

The January issue of the Missouri Pacific Lines Magazine contains a picture of the float that the Missouri Pacific entered in the Christmas parade sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hamilton and children of Fort Worth, Tex., have returned home after spending a few days visiting relatives and friends in Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walters and children of Des Moines, Iowa, are spending a few days visiting relatives and friends in Sedalia. They are enroute to Kingsville, Tex., where Mr. Walters will be employed with the Missouri Pacific.

Past Presidents Club Luncheon

The Past Presidents club of the Sedalia Garden club held a luncheon at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Magnolia room of the Bothwell hotel with 29 members present.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. T. H. Yount, retiring president.

An interesting report was made by Mrs. Frank S. Leach on the new film projector which may be used with or without sound effect purchased recently by the club. This machine is entirely paid for and a vote of thanks was given Mrs. J. C. Saunders, past president of the Sedalia Council of Garden clubs, who during her presidency in the council raised a sum of $50.00 to be used to help pay for the machine. It was decided by the Past President's club to also purchase another machine, an SVE millimeter projector in order that individual pictures of local gardens and flowers may be shown. The money necessary for the purchase of the machine was obtained at the meeting.

The two projectors will be placed in the public library where Miss Mary English and her staff may use them to show films designed for their use for educational purposes. The machine will not be taken out of the library except for the use of the Sedalia Garden clubs.

During the afternoon a picture on Alaska was shown on the machine.

Mrs. Yount expressed appreciation for the cooperation she received during the past year from her officers who were: Mrs. Arthur Klang, first vice-president; Mrs. Fred Kueck, second vice-president; Mrs. Frank Leach, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. C. L. Carter, founder and director.

The election of officers for 1951 were installed by Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, past council president. The new officers are: Mrs. P. L. Strole, president; Mrs. H. C. Johnson, first vice-president; Mrs. Roy Gerster, second vice-president; Mrs. Ida Harriman, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. C. L. Carter, founder and director.

Mrs. Strole made a few appropriate remarks upon entering her new duties as president.

Slumber Party

Malinda Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cook, 725 West Third street, gave a slumber party Friday night. Guests were: Nancy Garst, Susan Schien, April Burton and Jaydeane Young.

Officers For Neighbors' Club

The Lookout Friendly Neighbors met at the home of Mrs. Kidd Hood with Mrs. J. F. Shaw, the newly elected president presiding. Mrs. Lauren Arnett and Mrs. James E. Parkhurst were welcomed as new members. Mrs. Walter Scott and Mrs. Webb were guests.

Mrs. Shaw appointed the following officers for the year of 1951: Vice-President and parliamentarian, Mrs. C. R. Brown, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. O. Jones; reporter, Mrs. James E. Parkhurst; song leader, Mrs. Roy DeWitt; game leader, Mrs. Lauren Arnett.

Chairman for parent education, Mrs. Parkhurst; health, Mrs. Arthur McMillin; reading, Mrs. J. E. Kent; community improvement, Mrs. McMullin; policy, Mrs. Hood; dramatics, Mrs. DeWitt. Leaders appointed for food, Mrs. Hood; clothing, Mrs. Arnett; home management, Mrs. Brown.

The 1951 year books were filled out and secret pals exchanged gifts. The by-laws were read by the president and approved by the club. Refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. O. Jones February 15th. Roll call will be answered with a quotation from Lincoln or Washington.

Club Fills Out Project Blanks

The Hillview 4-H club held its regular meeting at the Hughesville school cafeteria. The president Annette Conaway opened the meeting by all repeating the club pledge.

Project blanks were filled out. It was voted to give one dollar to R.Y.O. The closing song was "America." Games were played and refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Jerry Conaway.

The next meeting will be at the home of Joan and Harrell Lee Nicholson.

Neolithic Culture Newly Discovered

TEL AVIC—(AP)—Archeological evidence of a 6500 year-old culture, called the Yarmukian, is shown in the newly-opened museum of the Isreal agricultural settlement of Sha'ar Hagolan, south of Lake Tiberias between the Yarden and Yarmuk rivers.

The excavation of the Yarmukian finds began in 1943, was interrupted by the war, and resumed last year. It was directed by Professor Moshe Stekelis of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He said the excavation revealed evidence of the Neolithic period for the first time in this country.

Ohio State Holds Parley With Faurot

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 20—(AP)—Don Faurot, Missouri's originator of the "Split-T" formation, was interviewed today for the head football coaching job at Ohio State university.

Faurot, who was an avowed candicate for the job in 1941—When Paul Brown won out, came here this time at the request of a university football coach screening committee. He did not apply for the post vacated last month by Wes Fesler.

All 12 members of the University Athletic committe sat in on the parley with the Missouri Tiger's 43-year-old mentor.

No Announcement Made

No announcement of any kind, from Faurot, the board or athletic director Richard C. Larkins, was forthcoming after the full-scale interview, which lasted several hours.

Harry Strobel, OSU freshman coach, was interviewed by the board yesterday, and two more applicants for the $15,000 position will be heard next week. Warren Gaer, of Drake university, the Missouri Valley "coach of the year," comes in Friday, and Chuck Mather, of Massillon, Ohio high school—from where Brown leaped to the Ohio State spot—will go on the witness stand Saturday.

Mather, whose terrific Tigers have won the state high school crown the last three years, with "Church" winning the "coach of the year" award in 1948 and 1950, is leading in a poll of favorites being conducted by the high school coaches.

12 More To Get Chance

At least another dozen prospects will appear before the athletic board or its screening committee as Ohio State, in Larkins' words, "conducts its search with all the dignity of a great university."

Indications were that the screening committee and the athletic board would complete their work, and pick their candidate, in time for the Board of Trustees to act on the nomination at a February 12 meeting. The nomination must receive the approval of President Howard L. Bevis before going to the trustees who have the final say in the matter.

Boros Fires 68 For Slim Lead At Long Beach

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 20—(AP)—The par-breaking spree in the $10,000 Lakewood Park Open golf tournament continued unabated today and the life of the party remained a little known guest from North Carolina named Julius Boros.

Boros, a 30-year old rookie pro on the winter tour from Mid Pines, N. C., shot a three under par 68 to go with a first round 65 and reach the midway mark of the tournament with a 36 hole total of 133.

One stroke back of the pace-setting Boros were Cary Middlecoff, whose 64 was the lowest round of the tournament, and veteran Clayton Heafner, who had a 67. Middlecoff had a 70 yesterday to make his total 134 and Heafner shot his second straight 67.

Play is at the Lakewood Country club with a course that measures 6,245 yards and has a par of 35-36—71.

After today's finish, the scoreboard showed 36 players who were still under par for the 36 hole distance.

Alone at 135 when the mass assault ended tonight was Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Greenwich, Conn. Mayer, who is on his honeymoon had a 68 yesterday and a 66 today.

Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., shot his second successive 68 for 136 and one shot back were Manuel De La Torre, Milwaukee, with a 70-67 and Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., with 68-68.

Lagging back at 138, but still capable of striking for the top spot, were Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, with a 68-70; Leland Gibson, Kansas City, 69-69; Harry Nettelbladt, Avon, Conn., 67-71, and Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., 67-71.

The poison of the rattlesnake, crotalus, is used in treatment of cases of yellow fever.

Third Round Starts Monday in Tourney Held By Optimists

The third round of the Sedalia Optimist League will get under way Monday night at Washington school. Two games will be played Monday night, starting at 7:00 p. m. and 8:00 p. m. Tuesday night two more games will be played at the same time as Monday night, to complete the third round. The Optimist East and the 54 Explorers still remain undefeated.

The schedule for Monday night will be the Methodist Scouts pitted against the 54 Juniors and in the second starting at 8:00 p. m. the Episcopal Scouts will team up with the 54 Explorers. Tuesday night starting at 7:00 p. m. will be the Presbyterian Scouts and the Optimist West. The second game starting at 8:00 p. m. will bring together the Democrat Newspaper Carriers and the Optimist East.

Sooners Drop Oklahoma Ags In Big Upset

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 20—(AP)—Oklahoma upset Oklahoma A. and M. the nation's No. one basketball team, 44-40, tonight in an edge-of seat, four-loaded game which scuttled the Aggies' 18 game winning string.

Oklahoma, a seven point underdog, pulled the surprise of the season by stealing a page from the Aggie's own book — controlling the ball most of the way.

Pete Darcey, A. and M.'s six-foot eight-inch center, fouled out a minute and a half after half-time intermission and with him went the Aggies chance to win its 19th straight and 17th this season.

The Sooners immediately pulled in front 27-26, and led the rest of the way before a screaming capacity crowd of 5,500.

The Aggies chopped the margin to 38-40 with a minute to play but missed their chance to tie it up when they let Sherman Norton, Oklahoma forward, sneak away for a sleeped that boosted the margin to 41-38.

The second of Johnson's spectacular dashes again cut the lead to two points. But with only five seconds left John Rogers, Oklahoma guard, hit from the center of the floor. That was the ball game.

Hubbard Meets Dalton Cagers Here Tomorrow

The Dalton high school Blue Jays will battle with the Hubbard high school Tigers on the local court, Monday, January 22 at 3 p. m. This will be the first regular game played between the two teams in several years, with the exception of the exhibition game played at Liberty Park Convention Hall recently. This game was a preliminary c ontest in which Dalton beat the Tigers.

Hubbard is determined to even the score with the Blue Jays.

Next Wednesday the Tigers and the Tigerettes will journey to Boonville.

Coach Akins told his athletic committee that he felt that there is a good team in the making at Hubbard and pleaded for all Hubbard supporters not to give up on the basis of this season's record.

Colorado Rally Nips I-State In Overtime

AMES, Iowa, Jan. 20—(AP)—Colorado overcame a 32-18 Iowa State lead tonight to down the Cyclones 47-42 in an overtime Big Seven Conference basketball game.

Colorado made only two field goals in the first half which ended 23-11.

The victory moved Colorado into a third place tie with Oklahoma at 2-2. Iowa State dropped into the cellar with a 1-4 record.

Iowa State was in front 32-18 after six minutes of the second half but the Buffs started a full court press to disturb the Cyclones and gradually narrowed the gap.

Colorado tied the score at 38-all and it was a see-saw battle until the finish of regulation play.. The Buffs got the regular game 42-all tie on Pim Trmaeas' free throw with 17 seconds left scored five points in the overtime while holding Iowa State without a point.

Tigers Halt Losing Streak In 43-42 Win

After trailing for three periods the Smith-Cotton Tigers gained a sudden eye for the basket and defeated the Raytown Blue Jays by a 43-42 score to snap a two game losing streak. Bob Shawver, Tiger center sank the winning bucket for the locals and also lead the teams scoring attack with 14 counters to his credit. Raytown guard, Titus, led the Blue Jays with 20 markers.

The game was a ragged affair and to hinder the play of the two teams was a very small Raytown court. The Blue Jays held an intermission advantage of six points, 26-20 In the third frame the Bengals narrowed the margin by one point but still trailed by a 34-29 count. With three minutes remaining in the contest Shawver hit a fielder to give the Tigers a temporary lead. The contest changed hands once more and Shawver then hit a two pointer to clinch the win.

The victory for coach Jim Ball's boys snapped a two game losing streak, the longest of the season for Smith-Cotton. MMA and Windsor handed the concetive losses to the local cagers.

Bill Morgan was runner-up to Shawver in the Tiger scoring derby with nine points. Bounding out the scoring for the locals was Murphy and Johnson with eight each, and Bill McCrary with three markers.

PCAA Play-Offs Start Jan. 29; Finals At S-H

Plans have been made by the officials of the P. C. A. A. conference for the annual conference basketball and volleyball playoffs. The week of January 20-February 3 was selected for the tournament with the north section eliminations to be held at LaMonte, the southern division at Cole Camp, and the final at Sacred Heart, Sedalia, February 2 and 3.

The south section eliminations will begin January 29 at Cole Camp, with Warsaw, Lincoln, Green Ridge, and Cole Camp high schools participating. The north section will begin their eliminations at the LaMonte high school gym also on January 29, with Hughesville, Houstonia, Smithton, Sacred Heart and LaMonte participating.

The first, second and consolation winners from the northern section will play the corresponding winners from the southern section at Sacred Heart, Friday and Saturday nights, February 2 and 3, in order to determine the final first, second, and third place winners, as well as the consolation awards

Eight trophies will be awarded the winners: four in basketball and four in volleyball. There will be first, second, third and consolation in both boys and girls competition.

In basketball, Warsaw, Cole Camp and LaMonte should rule pre-tournament favorites.

Sacred Heart gym, with the installation of new bleachers, dressing rooms and showers, is being placed in readiness for the tournament. It is the first time it has been held in Sedalia. Officials for the Sedalia tournament, February 2 and 3 are: Rocky Carver and Howard Glavin.

Dynamos Rout St. Louis Five By 82-27 Count

The Missouri Pacific Dynamos cage team defeated the Missouri Pacific Traffic club of the general offices in St. Louis Saturday night at Conventian Hall Liberty Park by an overwhelming score of 82-27. Every man dressed out for the game saw action for the local MoPac club. Ace Foster McGuire, playing only two quarters, rang up 20 points to lead the locals in scoring. He was followed by Dean Edwards with 13 and Marvin Burford with 12. Talghader and Fleislman each tallied six to lead the St. Louis five.

The game was the second for the Dynamos in the playoffs to determine the champion of the Missouri Pacific system. They dropped their frist contest to the Little Rock MoPac team by a 37-34 score.

Special Touch Upsets Highly-Favored Nags In $50,000 Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 20—(AP)—Special Touch, a 5 to 1 outsider outran the favorite Calumet Farm and A. G. Vanderbilt entries in the $50,000 Santa Margarita handicap today before 41,000 fans at Santa Anita.

The race, a mile and one-eighth fixture for fillies and mares, was supposed to belong to the eastern "name" horses and especially Vanderbilt's prime contender, Next Love. But Special Touch, a California-bred, beat out Bewitch, the Calumet ace, by a length.

Next move ran fourth, behind her stablemate, Bed O'Roses.

Willie Shoemaker, who tied with Joe Culmone as the foremost rider of 1950, was astride Special Touch, who returned $13.20, $2.80 and $2.10 to her backers. Bewitch, running coupled with Wistful, paid $5.30 and $2.10, while Bed O'Roses kicked back $2.10 to show.

Time for the race was 1.48 3/5 on a fast track.

Sport Scraps

ENDEAVORING to eliminate weak teams and at the same time trying to select the stronger of the independent basketball clubs in Missouri, the Lions club committee on the Fourth Annual tournament has decided upon fourteen ball clubs, and using a sixteen bracket with two teams drawing byes. The teams which have entered and sent in their forfeit monies which were accepted are considered the strongest in Missouri.

The Missouri Independent Basketball Championship has become one of the big sporting events of Sedalia and actually starts off the tournament competitions in sports. Next on the schedule will be the Missouri State Semi-Pro tournament which is scheduled for the latter part of July, then comes the Ban Johnson and American Legion play-offs when these two teams head up their respective leagues.

Lloyd Parker, and Winston Ream are handling the team registeration and Ream who has had handled this portion of the tournament from year to year declares he felt the entries this year and their records shown to date indicate a much stronger competition among the clubs.

No argument, the Sedalia tournament is gaining limelight among the Independent teams due to the "loading up" of ball players. Some of the College stars of the past as well as some outstanding high school players in the various communities which have teams coming have added these players to their rosters.

Trying to pin a favorite in the tournament is tough business but the dark horse from Farber is one which has drawn considerable attention; Lebanon who has Darrell Larrance a former star of Missouri. Semmons Furniture, Columbia, has been seeded No. 1, Central Business College No. 2, and Creighton No. 3.

Checking over the records of the teams, I personally will not venture out on a limb on this one, there are too many good clubs coming.

SMITH-COTTON high school appears to have an up and coming varsity player for the 1952 University of Missouri basketball squad in Bill Holst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holst, 1014 East Tenth street. He isn't the only one from this area who is showing up in Freshman basketball according to the Columbia newspapers, as Don Snyder of Clinton, and Das Conway of Hughesville likewise drew favorable comment along with Holst.

The potential Varsity material comes from Coach Clay Cooper's crop of Freshmen, 20 in all, who have been concentrating on defense, ball handling and offensive maneuvers. The defense work, according to Cooper, is stressed on because the boys fresh from high school appear to be lacking in that department of playing.

The three above mentioned players have a range around six foot four inches in height. Snyder a boy who tips the scale hand to 215 won a numeral on the freshman grid team.

Other potential players who gained recognition are: Houston Bell, 6-foot-3, from Marshall; John Baumgardner, 6-foot-3, from Coffey and possesses a good set shot. Bob Schoonmaker, Lebanon, is another freshman footballer who may win cage prominence. Ron Hughes, 6-foot-1, of Carthage; Carl Feldman, 6-foot-1, from Clayton and Bob Stoneman, 6-foot-2, has plenty of drive.

Two players from out-of-state high school cage circles are Wynn Casteel and John Mathis. Casteel, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is 5-foot-11. His father was a Tiger gridder during the playing days of Don Faurot. Mathis, 6-foot-2, from La Port, Ind., is a good set shot.

Talbot Explains Background Of Recent N. Y. Cage Scandal

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—The basketball fan who has never seen a game in the big town "glamor" arenas must find it difficult to conceive of the circumstances which could breed such a smelly affair as the "dumping" scandal of the past week involving two athletes of Manhattan college.

Those whao have taken their basketball straight in the campus field houses recall mainly the continuous roar which battered their eardrums as the student bodies pulled for their perspiring heroes. There is nothing more pulse-stirring in all sports than a good close game in basketball's original setting.

The fan who sits next to you in the college gym more than likely is yelling his lungs out for one team or the other to win. He doesn't care whether his choice wins by one point or a dozen points—just so it wins. If he boos anybody, it probably is the referee. The whole thing is fun.

Little Like College Sport

To say that the game is played in the show places is different would be understatement of the season. The players are the same, and they use only one ball at a time, but there the resemblance ends. The atmosphere is that, roughly, of the race track.

One probably would have to see for himself to appreciate the vast gulf between the rah-rah article of the campus and the high - pressure gambling game which has come into being in the past 10 years, but we'll make a try.

We'll take Madison Square Garden, because that happens to be the birthplace of the new sport and is, up t this moment, the only arena where crooked games are definitely known to have been played.

You go into the Garden on a basketball night and the first acquaintance you run into in the lobby says "Whatta y' year?" He means, of course, have you had, within the past half-hour, a hot tip that the "fix" is in for any of the four teams appearing on the night's program.

Tipsters "Fix You In"

In the improbable event that you've been stuck in a revolving door till afternoon and haven't heard a word, the friend more than likely will fill you in. Get down on Siwash and 15 points, he'll say. The other team's seven-foot center was seen coming out of a store yesterday with six new tailor made suits over his arm. Maybe it was eight.

Thus equipped with "Tom's green sheet," you make your way past knots of deeply conversing students of form up to the mezzanine. You've perhaps noticed idly that most of the well dressed sportsmen you saw in the lobby were equipped with large cigars, either for smoking of gesturing.

As the seats fill up around you, the thought will occure that this was no figment of the imagination. A man without a cigar in this particular section practically look undressed. It must be a hallmark, or something.

Next thing you'll notice is that there's a mink coat for every cigar, and that all the cigars know each other. They wave and move restlessly and have quick little talks on the stairs. Now and then one is gone for some time. to check up on the weather outside, no doubt.

The students of the contending schools have, of course, long since taken seats in their appointed sections and are helping their cheerleaders whip up something approvimating a collegiate atmosphere. But not our friends with the cigars. They get around right up to the time the game begins, and during the intermissions they are lively.

9 Out Of 10 Have Bets

You will begin to believe what you have heard—that nine out of 10 basketball fans in the Garden, not counting the students, have a bet down. You are aware of course, that the betting all is on the "point" system, whether a team will win or lose by so many points. Only students are dumb enough to care, really, which team wins.

Somehow, if you just came to watch the country's best college basketball players in action, you find as the games goes along that you do not much like what you hear. You are accustomed to hearing the home fans root for their team exclusively and even cheer when a visiting forward misses. That's in the fine old American tradition. But this is different.

A nervous 19-year-old steps up to throw a foul shot—and misses. You are shocked to hear the "boos." After all, his team is 10 points in front and winning easily, so what does a single foul shot matter? It matters a lot to the thousands in the crowd who have bet his side to win by, say 11 points.

Even Good Shots Booed

It is not unkown, conversely, for a player to sink a thriller from away out to tie the score and have his ears burned by shouts of disapproval from the sportsmen who have staked a sawbuck that the offending athlete's team will lose by a certain margin.

Chances are that, about midway o the second game, you will suddenly grow tired of your surroundings. The basketball is great. These tall boys really play the game.

But somewhere behind you a fellow fan is yelling "dump" and singling out a player for special vituperation. He is losing, and his loud anguish detracts from your enjoyment of the game.

It seems like a good time to leave the premises. The air is cool and fresh outside.

Lions Club Cage Tourney Opens Tuesday

14 Teams Entered In Annual Classic; Semmons Rated Tops

Arrangements for the fourth annual Lion's Club Missouri Independent Basketball Championship, which is to be held at Liberty Park Convention Hall Tuesday through Saturday of this week, have been completed according to Lloyd R. Parker, commissioner for this year's tourney.

Entrance fees have been received from 14 leading teams from all over the state. It was originally planned to have a 16 team field but several teams failed to meet the entry deadline. As a result of the cut in the number of teams Faber and Rolla received first round bys.

The MIBC was started in 1948 with John W. Asher acting as commissioner. Conway, led by Darrell Lorrance, won the tourney over a tough field. In 1949 and 1950 Lloyd Phillips and Wink Ream conducted the meet for the Lions. Two Sedalia teams, the Independents and the Central Business college Basketeers, copped the titles.

Lorrance To Return

Coming to the tourney this year will be the Lebanon Independents who are loaded with many members of the 1947 championship Conway squad. The three Greene brothers Bill Peck and Darrell Lorrance are some of the names on their roster. They received fourth seeding.

Rolla has entered a team composed of members of the Rockets and the Ramblers who were both in last year's tourney. The Rockets took fourth place money and had a well rounded outfit. They are seeded eighth.

Tuscumbia has a small but deadly shooting quintet and received fifth rating. Creighton is also considered a title threat as they walked away with the Windsor American Legion meet early in January. Creighton was tabbed as the pre-tourney's third best.

The team with the highest scoring average per game is Faber. Faber is headed with such name players as Norman Thompson who was a member of Sedalia's two championship teams. Faber has averaged over 80 points a game, has a 13-2 record and is the tournament dark-horse, being seeded sixth.

Columbia's Semmons Furniture five has been seeded first by tourney officials. Semmons won the Central Business College Invitation Tourney as they stomped the Basketeers in the finals. They have such name players on their list as Don Stroot, Bob Wachter, Kenny Bounds and Cy Delay. The first three were former University of Missouri lettermen and the latter is well known to local fans as one of the most deadly shooters to perform on the local court in many years.

CBC Seeded Second

The CBC Basketeers polled enough votes from tourney operators to be seeded as tourney runner-up and the Versailles team is picked as seventh choice.

Other teams in the tourney who were not seeded are: Green Ridge, Houstonia, Jefferson City Red Birds, and Town and Country of Sedalia.

There will be a three game schedule Tuesday and Wednesday night with the opening contest getting underway at 7:00 o'clock. Thursday's four games will start at 6:30 o'clock. These games will be the quarter finals. The semi-finals will be run Friday night, starting at 8:00 o'clock. The finals will start at the same time of the semi-finals on Saturday night.

Rocky Carver, Ralph "Stub" Dow, and Cleat Helms have been obtained as tourney officials.

Browns Pick-Up John Berardino

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 20—(AP)—Johnny Bernardino, 34-year-old infielder, signed a contract with the St. Louis Browns today, a move described by club officials as insurance against the loss of younger players.

Bernardino, a free agent because of his ten years in the majors, now is acting in a picture in Hollywood.

Bernardino played for the Browns from 1939 through 1947 Last season he was with the San Diego and Sacramento clubs of the Pacific Coast League and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

President Bill DeWitt of the Browns said the club was fortunate in getting the infielder, both because he has had military service and probably won't be called again and the fact "he should be a steadying influence on our young infield."

Rip Sewell Named New Orleans Pilot

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20—(AP)—Rip Sewell, former major league baseball star, was named manager of the New Orleans Pelicans of the class AA Southern Association today.

The announcement came from Branch Rickey, vice president and new general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Pelican's parent club.

Last night Rickey announced that Joe L. Brown, son of comedian Joe E. Brown, will be the new general manager of the Pelicans. Born, 32 year old World War II veteran, was general manager at Waco, Tex., last year.

Sewell managed the Charleston, S. C., club of the class A Sally league last season.

Gremlins Edge Lincoln, 57-50

Hodges Hits 18 To Pace Locals To Close Win

The Sacred Heart Gremlins defeated the Lincoln high school Cardinals Friday evening at Lincoln by a score of 57-50. In a B game the Lincoln team won a 41-26 victory and the Lincoln girls volleyball team defeated Sacred Heart girls by a score of 40 to 13.

The Gremlin - Cardinal game was a thriller from start to finish with the Gremlins jumping into a lead on two quick baskets by Menefee. They were able to cling to the lead all during the game, leading at half time 28 to 20. Hodges and Menefee accounted for 21 of the 28 points.

S-H Grabs Lead

When the second half opened the Gremlins forged into a 13 point lead, but the Cardinals began to find the range and soon cut the lead to five. From then on it was a nip and tuck affair with the Gremlins holding their lead although Jett, Labus, Menefee and Fall left the game on fouls.

For the Gremlins Hodges was high scorer with 18 points, followed by Menefee with 15. Boring was high for Lincoln with 12

The B game found the Sacred Heart cagers cold the first half. They warmed up the second period but it was too late to overcome the large lead Lincoln had accumulated. Herb Bishop scored 15 points for Sacred Heart to lead the scoring.

The girls volley ball game found the Lincoln team gaining an early lead which the Sedalia team found impossible to overcome. Welliver and Bopp led the Sedalia scoring.

Cole Camp Here Friday

Friday evening at the Sacred Heart's gym the schools basketball teams will meet the Cole Camp high school teams. The girl's volleyball team will play the Cole Camp team the game at 7:00 o'clock.

Four Rookies Sign Cardinal Contracts

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 20—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals signed four rookies to 1951 contracts today.

They were outfielders Elden Repulski, Larry Ciaffone and Larry Miggins, and Pitcher Kurt Kreiger.

Repulski hit .323 with Columbia, G.., last season. Ciaffone batted .324 with Rochester, N. Y., and Miggins had a .280 average with Columbus, Ohio.

Krieger won 17 and lost 5 with Columbus, Ohio, in 1950.

Ciaffone, Miggins and Kreiger were in spring training with the Cardinals in 1949 but failed to stay.

Semi-Windup
Sonny Meyers vs. Jerry Meeker
St. Joseph Missoula, Mont.
Two falls out of 3, 45-minute limit.

Preliminary Event
Lord Finis Hall vs. Barney Bernard
Montreal, Can. Grand Rapids, Mich.
One fall with a 30-minute limit.

Place: National Guard Armory.
Time: Wednesday 8:30 p. m.

Wednesday night, a pleased but disappointed contender for the heavyweight title, Ray Eckert, will be back in the local ring. Eckert is scheduled against Ronnie Etchison, St. Joseph, Mo., another real contender for the title. Two excellent events will support the main event on this week's card.

Eckert last week went to a draw with Champion Lou Thesz of St. Louis after each had won a fall. The time limit ended the match with Thesz about on the ropes while Eckert was still going strong. "Oh if it could have been no time limit, I know I could have beat him." Eckert said following the match.

Etchison needs no introduction, being a real man of the ring who never gives up to an opponent easily.

In the semi-windup event Sonny Meyers from St. Joseph, will clash with Jerry "Killer" Meeker, Missoula, Mont., in a two out of three match which has a 45-minute time limit.

Meeker and Meyers are both tough opponents and they will give the fans plenty of action in their event.

Barney Bernard, Grand Rapids, Mich., who made his first bow to Sedalia fans January 11 is scheduled against Lord Finis Hall of Montreal, Canada in a one-fall event which has a 30-minute time limit. This should prove another match filled with excitement and action.

Mrs. Zaharias Stretches Lead In Tampa Open

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 20—(AP)—Babe Zaharias lengthened her lead to six strokes in the Tampa Women's Open Golf tournament today with another sub par round.

She notched a 36-38—74 today over the 6,093-yard, par 75 Palma Ceia course for a total of 215 at three quarters mark of the $3,500 event.

Patty Berg moved into second place with a 35-35—70, best round of the day as little Louise Suggs, who had been pushing Mrs. Zaharias blew to a 40-38—78.

That gave Miss Berg a total of 221 and dropped Miss Suggs to 222.

Mrs. Zaharias, now playing out of Tampa, was in fine form all through her game, but did not have quite the sharpness which gave her 71 Thursday and 70 yesterday.

Miss Berg from Minneapolis, was hitting them straight down the middle and following up well.

Miss Suggs, the popular Carrollton, Ga., pro, lost her touch completely on approach shots and was also having trouble with her putts.

14-Year-Old Ex-GI Returns To Sixth Grade Classroom

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan 20—(AP)—Fourteen-year-old James D. Byrd is headed back to a sixth-grade schoolroom—via Korea and as an ex-soldier.

But when he goes back, it will be much against his wishes. He wants to stay in the Army, where he'd dreamed of being since he was eight.

Boy Suffered Frostbite

James, recovering from frostbitten fingers and toes at Percy Jones Army hospital here, tried twice to enlist before he was able to convince an "eager-beaver" recruiting sergeant at Columbus, Ohio last June 9 he was 18.

An alert blond, James is five feet, nine inches tall and weighs 150 pounds.

Maj Chester H. Davis, Percy Jones executive officer, says as soon as James recovers he will be given an honorable discharge from the Army because of his age.

James looks gloominly to that day, saying: "I'll have to go back to school, I guess, but I don't like it."

He ran away from his sixth-grade school room near Beckley, W. Va., to enlist.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Davis, now of Youngstown, Ohio.

A BAR Rifleman

By November James was in Korea, a Browning Automatic Rifleman (BAR) with the 7th Infantry regiment of the Eighth Army's Third Division. He got his fingers and toes frozen fighting up the west coast of Korea. Evacuated by plane, he landed here Dec. 26—still 18 to the Army.

His parents didn't know for two weeks he had joined the Army. Then they tried to convince him he should get out, but made no direct plea to the Army.

James showed the tattered certificate, which he carried to Korea and back in his pocket. Fellow soldiers noted the birth date: April 5, 1936. Shortly officers showed up to ask questions—and see the certificate.

"Now," says James, "I wish I'd burned it or pitched it in the ocean.

Just A Kid

Pfc. James D. Byrd, 14, of Youngstown, O., who enlisted in the army last June is now a frostbite patient at Percy Jones Army Hospital in Battle Creek, Mich. He holds birth certificate which proves his age. Byrd was with the 3ad Infantry Division, 8th Army, in North Korea. (AP Wirephoto)

Runaway Plane Snarls Traffic At K. C. Airport

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 20—(AP)—A runaway, pilotless airplane on the ground at Municipal Airport held up air traffic 40 minutes Friday afternoon.

The low-wing monoplane taxied in huge circles until Dave White, an air service employe, caught a wing and clambered aboard to stop the engine. A line boy was sitting in the cockpit to assist him. When the engine roared to life the boy apparently became frightened and jumped out. The plane then started its wild circling.

About 2,000 persons crowded the edge ofg the field to watch as airport employes tried to stop the runaway. One man tried to lasso a wing, but the rope always slipped off. A policeman fired twice with a revolver, unsuccessfully trying to puncture a tire. Several men tried to throw a log in front of the wheels to make the plane tip on its nose, but the craft always missed the log.

Finally White dashed in and made the stop.

One observer counted three 4-engine airliners and about 20 other planes circling the field, waiting to land.

Need Workers On the Farms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—Increased plantings to meet defense demand—backed by already rising farm income—may result this year in a record call for foreign workers to help harvest this nation's crops.

Secretary of Labor Tobin told his special farm labor committee yesterday that at least 400,000 additional workers will be needed.

And the Agriculture Department reported that farm income is running about five per cent above a year ago.

Money in the farmer's pocket and record crops in the field add up to greater demands for seasonal import of farm workers. During World War II as many as 300,000 hands were imported from Mexico, Puerto Rico and Jamaica.

Tobin said not all the additional workers required for this year's crop goal would be imported but he said the coming harvest poses one of the country's major manpower problems.

Some 100,000 workers were imported last year when most crops were still under planting restrictions. Since then, however, most restrictions have been removed and the government is calling for more production.

Farm income for January was estimated at $2,300,000,000. That was five per cent above a year ago. Livestock production accounted for the increase.

And the Agriculture Department announced yesterday that the number of beef cattle now being grain fed for the slaughter market is at a record high of 4,656,000 head, five per cent above a year ago. Livestock production accounted for the increase.

And the Agriculture Department announced yesterday that the number of beef cattle now being grain fed for the slaughter market is at a record high of 4,656,000 head, five per cent higher than in January last year.

The Hole Made The Catch

Robert Clayton Rector, 6, looks up hopefully as firemen and his father (right) shovel away the earth that trapped him over an hour at Wichita Falls, Tex. Playing baseball in the yard of his home he threw the ball into a vacant lot next door and it rolled into a four-foot deep, 16-inch wide hole. Into the hole went Robert—but when he squatted to reach the ball, his knees and hips got wedged. It took a lot of moral support from his mother, Mrs. C. C. Rector (center), and over 45 minutes of digging by his father and firemen to free him. (AP Wirephoto)

Stork Too Impatient For A 'Stork Shower'

ELKHART, Ind., Jan. 20—(AP)—An impatient stork broke up a "stork shower" near here Friday night.

Mrs. Martin Shea was the guest of honor. Before the party was over it became evident the stork couldn't wait.

He arrived in a city ambulance while the vehicle was still several blocks short of a hospital.

Yankees Have Few Worries; Prize Rookies Breach Gap

By Jack Hand

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—A new crop of New York Yankees is on the way to Yankee Stadium from the ranks of the revived farm system.

Some 60 men—one out of every four in the organization — made the All-Star teams in their minor leagues last summer. Beaumont of the Texas League, Muskegon, Mich., of the Central League and McAlester, Okla., of the Sooner State League each places seven players.

Many of the 1950 stars, of course, already are in military service. Others will go before the season starts. It remains to be seen how seriously the Yanks and other clubs will be affected.

Mantle a Top Slugger

Top Yankee farmhand in the hitting department is Micky Mantle, Joplin, Mo., shortstop in the Western Association. He hit .383 and was first or near the top in most departments with 199 hits 30 doubles 12 triples 26 homers and 136 runs batted in.

Two others led their leagues in hitting. Clint Weaver of McAlester topped the Sooner League with .378 and led all the farmhands with 36 home runs. Jim Engleman, outfielder of the Newark, Ohio, club of the Ohio-Indiana League, led that league with .370 and hit 60 doubles.

Gil McLougal, Beaumont second baseman and most valuable player in the Texas League, averaged .366 with 21 doubles 13 triples and 13 homers. McDougal ranks high in manager Casey Stengle's future book.

In all 27 Yanks picked to All-Star squads batted than .300 with solid extra base punch all down the line.

Another Dickson?

Jack Urbam, a 150-pound right-hander with McAlester led all the Yankee-owned pitchers with 279 strikeuots and a 2.15 earned run average. As a pitcher he had a 23-5 record. Just to take up the slack time he hit .319 in more than 50 games, also appearing as a catcher and outfielder.

Other prizes were Don Bessant of La Grange, Ga., of the Georgia-Alabama League with a 22-7 record and a 2.23 earned run mark and Bob Wiesler of Joplin who struck out 277 although out of action for a month with a broken jaw. According to the Yanks, this does not include 15 strikeouts in a game rained out after 4½ innings.

Then there was Tom Peeler of Newark, Ohio, who hung up a 14-1 record although missing a month due to an injury. Al Cicotte, nephew of the famous Eddie Cicotte, had a 2.58 earned run average for Norfolk, Va., of the Piedmont League.

A Solid Infield

The Binghampton, N. Y., club of the Eastern League landed its entire infield on the All-Star team: first baseman Dale Long, second baseman Art Mazmanian, shortstop Jim Brideweser and third baseman Frank Verdi. Long later was drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

School Bus In Ditch, No Injuries

A large school bus of the Lincoln high school, Kansas City, was crowded into a ditch on West Main street in the 1400 block about 4:30 o'clock Saturday morning. More than twenty passengers in the vehicle escaped injury.

The bus contained students and friends of the Negro Kansas City high school which was en route to Boonville, Mo., where the basketball team was to play Saturday.

Leslie Reed, Negro, 412 West Pettis street, was arrested by the police a few minutes later after his car had gone into a ditch near the State Fair Boulevard and Main street intersection. According to the police report Reed in passing the bus caused the driver to take to a ditch to avoid a collision.

At police court time, Saturday morning, Reed who is being held in the city jail, was in no condition to appear before Judge Jerry Trotter and the case was continued over to Monday morning.

Claim Husbands Lured Away

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 20—(AP)—A brunette accused by three Detroit wives of luring away their husbands with beer, was freed from jail today by a man who said he had seen her picture in a newspaper and wanted to help her.

The woman, Mrs. Lorraine Brandon, 27, Detroit, was arrested here January 10 on vagrancy charges, along with three Detroit men, Dale C. Burley, 29, Harold P. Berube, 38, and John G. Davis, 24 Each received a 10 day jail sentence.

This morning as Gerald Gleason, assistant prosecutor, came to work he found a man about 50 years old waiting for him.

Gleason said the man identified himself as F. Hargrove, a painter from Peoria, Ill. Hargrove, Gleason said, reported he had seen the woman's picture in a Peoria newspaper and had come here to help her.

Mrs. Brandon's sentence expired today, but there was a little matter of $8.62 in court costs which would require a longer stay.

The man paid the court costs, Mrs. Brandon was released and the two left together.

After the arrest of the three Detroit men here, their wives filed non-support charges in Detroit. Mrs. Davis related that during a visit to a tavern Mrs. Brandon kept buying beer and finally all three men started out with her for California.

Total assets of the quartet when arrested here was six cents. The men will not be released until next Wednesday.

Kem For Bombing Out The Enemy

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 20—(AP)—Sen. James P. Kem (R-Mo.) declared today United Nations forces in Korea should "bomb out nests of the enemy where they find them."

In an interview, Kem, an outspoken critic of the Truman administration, added:

"Our men are fighting with their hands tied behind their backs."

The Missouri Senator made his statement in connection with United Nations' refusal to let the U. N. Air Forces attack beyond the Manchurian border.

"If the Korean situation continues unsatisfactory, we will have to quit the U. N.," Kem said. "However, we should give them a chance to work this out."

He was sharply critical of U. N. members who, he said, have "let us bear 90 per cent of the fighting and all of the expense."

Kem charged that Britain and France have "carried on lucrative trade in war materials with Russia and China, even since the Korean war."

Kem is returning to Washington following a week-long tour of Missouri.

"Missourians believe the Korea war is a mistake, and that the President got us into it with an edict without any prior consultation with the American people or Congress," Kem added.

Conjecture On Stalin's Successor

Some Observers Feel Molotov Not Be Chosen

EDITORS NOTE:
The question ferquently comes up: Who will succeed Stalin? The latest information on the possibilities is weighed here by William L. Ryan of the Associated Press Foreign Staff. The story is based on Ryan's close scrutiny of Russian affairs over several years, and on talks with diplomats in a position to know and balance the information that seeps from Soviet Russia. No clear-cut answers can be given, but this at least is an intriguing assay of developments likely to bear on the Kremlin enigma.

By William L. Ryan
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Western officials are closely examining wisps of evidence to support a growing hunch that the three top men of the Politburo have been sharpening their contest for Joseph Stalin's mantle as they eye his faltering health.

A number of developments are being looked upon as signs and portents of things to come — and some observers lean heavily to the belief that in the contest, first deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov will come out on the short end.

There are indications, such as the omission of their names in Soviet press accounts of Moscow doings, that the power twins of the Politburo—Georgi Maxmilianovitch Malenkov and Lavrenty Pavlovitch Beria — have been away from the capital on important business.

This twosome apparently have been getting the master's ear at his Sukhumi Vilwa on the Black Sea, where the Soviet leader habitually hibernates for long winter periods. Stalin, not noted in the past for paying much attention to his subordinates' ideas, may be listening intently now and thinking of his own place in history.

Stalin's health is a taboo subject for the Soviet press, but it reported, just about a year ago, Stalin's own statement that his doctors would not allow him to undertake a long trip—that is, to go outside the Soviet orbit to meet President Truman.

At 71, Stalin apparently is aware he cannot long sustain the iron grip which he has held on his subordinates — that he, like Lenin before him, has become a legend that will be manipulated by him who wields sufficient power.

Not at Celebration

Malenkov and Beria are a formidable combination controlling the police system and the Communiist party apparatus. They were missing from the important anniversary celebration of the Bolshevik revolutio.. Nov. 7. It is a safe bet they were with Stalin.

Fretful thoughts may have occurred to Molotov as he attended the celebration at the Bolshoi theater. It may have occurred to him that despite the preeminent position he held so long, the mantle of Stalin might well go to the younger and more vigorous Malenkov.

Molotov is the man credited by most diplomatic observers with being the architect of the present Soviet policy—constant, belligerent pressure against the west; bold, aggressive action.

Malenkov, for all his ruthlessness, is a realist and an apostle of caution. Like Stalin, under whose personal guidance he grew to power in the U.S.S.R., Malenkov is a strong believer in the consolidated position, the careful advance. This would be a present day parallel of the Stalin slogan of "Socialism in One Country." It has in it the seeds of a possible new internal upheaval.

Many foreign office people abroad long have clung to the belief that when Stalin died, the pattern of Trotzky-Stalin struggle for power which followed Lenin's death would be repeated.

Struggle in Soviet

Behind the new speculation of a developing struggle inside the Soviet Union are these events:

1. The return of Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet Union's hero of Berlin. After World War II and a period as Berlin commandant, Zhukov sank into obscurity. Many thought he was in disgrace. His ideas conflicted with Molotov's aggressive policy. Zhukov stood for cooperation with the west. At one time Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said he wished there were more generals like Zhukov.

Zhukov was prominently present on the Dais June 12 at the opening of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet, an event noted in the west with raised eyebrows. Malenkov, Beria and Molotov all were there. That was two weeks before the North Korean aggression.

Although U.S. intelligence sources speculate that Zhukov is now helping direct the Chinese armies from Manchuria, other competent observers reject this, holding that the Soviet part in that operation is in the hands of Marshal Rodion Malinovsky.

2. Beria's police and security system has been tightened up. Col. Gen. Lev Z. Mekhlis, one of the few Jews to reach high position in the U.S.S.R., was removed last October as head of the MGK. This is the ministry of state control It reports to Beria. This agency presides over the whole apparatus of Soviet government. It was placed in charge of Gen. V. N. Merkulov, a former head of the MGB, the ministry of state security.

Later there came evidence that all the police forces of the internal affairs department had been brought under the supervision of the MGB, including the secret police, the militia, the transport police and the border police. The MVD—ministry of interior affairs—a name dreaded even in the highest places, apparently was concerning itself chiefly with the vast slave labor program, and with generalized supervision of internal order.

3. Beria also has been tightening his grip on the interior ministries of the satellite European states. He controls these through his agents. He has shaken up a number of them.

4. There have been evidences leaking through the iron curtain and hinted at in the Soviet press of trouble inside the U.S.S.R., particularly in the Ukraine. Such restiveness might be one of a number of factors contributing to a cautious policy in the west.

5. There have been a number of shakeups in various departments of the Soviet government, notably in the construction and supply fields, and there is constant harping on the inadequacy of consumer goods. In one shakeup, B. A. Dvinsky was fired from his job of minister of procurements, which has to do with agricultural supplies. The job was given to P. K. Ponomarenko, a rising party functionary from White Russia. In recent months, Mikhail Suslov has slipped into the job of editor of Pravda, and his fortunes also apparently have been rising. Apparently both these men owe their rise to Molotov's blessing.

Youth Confesses Killing Boy

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 20—(AP)—The Will county prosecutor said a 17-year-old youth admitted today that he had grappled with 13-year-old Billy Rodenburg in a shack where the boy died.

State's Attorney John I. Pierce said Kenneth Scholz signed a statement saying that he lured the little lad to a shack, mistreated him and kept him captive until the boy died about 48 hours later.

Billy's body was found Thursday night beside a road in his home town of Crete, 35 miles south of Chicago. The slight, bespectacled lad had been missing since late Tuesday afternoon.

Authorities have not definitely determined the cause of death but have said they believed he was strangled. Pierce said Kenneth denied that he choked Billy, who was about five feet tall and weighed 79 pounds, but admitted abusing the boy.

Pearce said Kenneth related that he picked up Billy in his car Tuesday and held him captive while searching parties, aided by four civil air patrol planes, scoured the countryside for the missing lad.

After giving the statement, Kenneth was taken to Crete to reenact his account. The prosecutor said he had not yet determined what charge would be filed against Scholz and would hold him on an open charge.

Officials said Scholz told them that Billy, alive but unconscious, remained in the shack near the Scholz home—until his death Thursday. Then, Scholz said, he carried the body out to a road and left it there.

Young Scholz told his mother Thursday night he had seen two men throw a "bundle" from a car at that spot in the road. She notified police.

Elks Association To Have Clinic

The Missouri State Elks Association is holding a clinic at the Sedalia Lodge No. 125 today for the purpose of making plans for the Missouri State Supreme convention to be held in St. Louis the early part of May. State President Chris Oltman, who is also Mayor of Joplin, Mo., is presiding over the clinic.

Seventeen officers of the state association, fifteen who were accompanied by their wives, arrived in Sedalia Saturday evening and were honored guests at a dance given by the Sedalia Elks.

A majority of the Exalted Rulers of lodges throughout the state are also attending the clinic and a number of the Exalted Rulers also arrived in Sedalia Saturday evening and were guests at the dance.

An overall discussion of Elkdom in Missouri is to be held during the clinic.

Reports License Tag Stolen

The G. R. Janssen Motor Co., 540 East Third street, reported to the police Saturday a thief had stolen the dealer's license tag off the company pickup truck. The theft occurred sometime early Saturday morning.

Personals

Leo E. Eickhoff, 705 West Fifth street, has been in St. Louis the past week attending the H. A. M. A. C. show and will go to Kansas City next week-end for the Heart of America Men's Apparel Show there.

Mrs. Florence Elliott left Friday for Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., to attend the spring ready-to-wear market. She will buy merchandise for the Connor-Wagoner stores at Sedalia, Mexico, Lexington and Warrensburg.

Mrs. Ernest Schumaker, route 3, Sedalia, has returned home from St. Louis after spending more than a month in St. Louis with her daughter, Mrs. Virginia Clark. Mrs. Clark underwent an operation on December 8 at the Missouri Baptist hospital in St. Louis and accompanied her mother home to spend three weeks while convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pauech and son, Edward, Jr., of Milwaukee, Wis., visited in Sedalia and Jefferson City for a few days. In Jefferson City they visited Mrs Pauech's grandfather, Philip Stetzenbach, Sr., and aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mason. In Sedalia they visited Mrs. Pauech's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stetzenbach, 311 East Twenty-fifth street, her great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shafer, 717 Wilkerson, and Charlie Shafer and family, route 1. Mrs. Pauech is the former Marguerite Stetzenbach, daughter of Philip Stetzenbach, Jr., of Milwaukee, Wis., a former Sedalian.

Mrs. Walter Jennings and three children, Berry Lee, Cam and Lucinda Ann, of Austin, Tex., are here for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Berry, 812 West Fourth street. Mrs. Jennings and children came by plane from Austin to Kansas City and were met in Kansas City by her parents. Mr. Jennings, who is manager of the Spanish Village cafe, was unable to come with them at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cecil, 1321 South Moniteau avenue, who have gone to Los Angeles, Calif., for a visit, called Mr. Cecil's mother, Mrs. W. W. Cecil, Thursday night to tell her they had arrived in Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil will be in California about three weeks.

Dinner Given For Staff

Mrs. G. Patrick Darnell, Pettis county director of the State Division of Welfare, entertained her staff Wednesday evening with a dinner at the Sedalia Country club.

Guests were: Miss Shirley Adams, Mrs. Judson Banks, Mrs. Madge Colbert, Mrs. J. C. Connor, Miss Margaret Grady, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Leonard McClure, Mrs. Calvin Reneau, Mrs. Malcom Scott, Mrs. Carrington Shields, Miss Alma Wise, Mrs. Sylvan Woolery and Mrs. Tom McMurdo, who recently resigned.

The evening was spent in playing canasta.

Church News

A meeting of the Sedalia Council of Church Women will be held at 2:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the lecture room of the Broadway Presbyterian church, Broadway and Kentucky avenue.

An explanation will be given of the work of the council as a channel through which Protestant Christian women are given an opportunity for worship, fellowship and service across interdenominational lines.

Business to be considered will be the adoption of a new constitution and election of officers.

Petitions A Divorce

Mrs. Fannie Bucker filed suit for divorce in the Circuit Clerk's office Saturday from her husband, Carl Bucker, who was convicted of a felony crime and is now serving a two year prison term in the Missouri state penitentiary.

The Buckers were married December 7, 1946. Two children were born to this union. The plaintiff ask the custody of the two minor children. She is represented by the Bogutski and Bamburg law firm.

A Heart Grows in Greensboro

Noted Woman Writer Takes You on a Backstage Trip to a Polio Hospital

AUTHOR AND SUBJECT: Novelist Betty Smith pauses to help Judy Ann Wall, polio patient at Greensboro, N. C., with lunch.

By Betty Smith

Author of
"A Tree Grows in Brooklyn"

(Written for NEA Service)

GREENSBORO, N. C.—(NEA)—There ought to be an ordinance making it obligatory for every American citizen to spend five minutes once a year—only five minutes one time a year—walking through the convalescent wards of a polio hospital.

I walked through one. I took a trip through the Polio Convalescent Hospital at Greensboro, which is not far from my Chapel Hill home. I finished that visit with a feeling of shame.

I saw pretty soft-cheeked babies with withered arms; sweet little children with dead legs; growing children with twisted spines.

Some had been there for four years, since infancy. They had learned to walk there. They had never known a world outside the hospital. They stared in wonder at visitors who walked; at people standing upright.

* * *

I saw a very pretty young schoolteacher with a warm sunny smile, a victim of the 1949 epidemic. Her once pretty legs, in braces, swung uselessly between two crutches. She used one of her crutches as a baton as she led the crippled children in a rhythm session.

A record played "Sing a Song of Sixpence," and never had it sounded so wistful. Those children who had usable hands beat out the rhythm on drums, cymbals, sticks and triangles. A child with useless arms swayed back and forth hitting a circlet of bells with her chest in rhythm to the tune.

I saw other things—children learning to read. Many were quite adept at turning book pages with their toes. All their life toes would have to serve as fingers.

An eight-year-old blond beauty quietly turned the pages of a book on ballet dancing and studied the colored pictures. She'll never use the ballet slippers she got for her birthday a week before she was stricken.

A 10-year-old boy looked happily at a bat and ball on the bed beside him. He'll never be able to hold anything in his hands.

* * *

I saw . . . but never mind.

If you have a heart, you want to help. Now in these last days of January, there are no screaming ambulance sirens to remind you to help; no headlines about polio epidemics raging to spur you on; no graphs with lines shooting upward to bring the need home to you.

Now it is the battle behind the headlines; the slow, patient, heart-breaking years of hospital rehabilitation. That takes money—lots of money.

You don't have to walk through a polio hospital. You don't have to have your heart twisted.

For that, give a donation—or another donation. Enjoy watching your children run around with their "hands in everything." Give a dollar for their enjoyment. Rejoice that they have sound limbs. Give another "Thank you, God," dollar for that.

Be proud of your own legs (infantile paralysis is no longer infantile) that take you where you want to go; the hands you use each moment of the day; the straight spine that lets you stand upright.

Give a dollar for that pride, too.

GREEN RIDGE

Mrs. Otis McNew, assisted by Mrs. Baslee and Mrs. Harold Lee Baslee, was hostess at a pink and blue shower horning Mrs. William Heibner, on Saturday evening. Following the guests' arrival, Terry Carter, acting as paige, drawing an express wabon with a huge stork and the gifts, entered the living room. The guests divided into four groups and each group put on a stunt. Mrs. J. G. W. Kirschner and Mrs. A. N. Baker won the award. Other games were played and Mrs. Heibner opened her gifts.

Refreshments of pink and blue jello salad, topped with whipped cream, pink cake with blue icing and tea were served by the hostesses. Favors were miniature stroks with a baby wrapped in a pink blanket and held in the strok's mouth.

Guests present were: Miss Erma Whallon, Mrs. Wilfred Purchase, Mrs Bennie Clevenger, Mrs. Mattie Myers, Mrs. Homer Carter, Jr., and sons, Terry and Jimmy, Mrs. L. B. Beach, Mrs. A. N. Baker, Mrs. Julian Ream, Mrs. Floyd Egbert, Mrs. Loy Smith, Mrs. J. G. W. Kirschner, Mrs. Royal Ragar, Mrs. Charles Ward, Mrs. Earl Embree, Miss Estelle Marti, Mr. Charles Dump, Mrs. Waldo Harbit and Mrs. Roy Ragar. Those that sent gifts but were unable to attend were: Mrs. J. H. Woods, Mrs. L. B. Shaw, Mrs. Kenneth Myers, Mrs. L. L. Ream, Mrs. William Baslee, Mrs. G. D. Rayburn, Mrs. R. A. Stark and Mrs. H. A. Hite.

District Deputy President Verna V. Palmer and Deputy Marshal Nina Gordon and installing staff went to Calhoun Monday night, where they installed the new officers of Kensinger Rebekah lodge.

Those from the Green Ridge lodge attending were: Mrs. Lloyd Brown, Mrs. Alvie Lett, Mrs. James Reed, Mrs. George Weller, Mrs. D. D. Business Meet by Oak Grove Club

Eleven members read the club collect and membership pledge in unison as the business session was opened by Mrs. Norman Gibson, president, Friday when Oak Point Extension club met with Mrs. Herman Rieckhoff at her home.

Roll call was answered by "A Resolution I Should Make." Mrs. Gibson, the devotional leader, read John 14, first to fifteenth verses. Mrs. Ralph Minor gave a financial report of the club and the report of the December meeting. A letter of thanks was read from Miss Julia Rockford of the College of Agriculture, Columbia for the club's contribution to the Student Club Fund. A new club motto was chosen, "Not For One But One For All," for 1951. The club books were filled out.

On February 12 the club will serve a plate lunch at the stock sale at the Missouri State Fair Grounds at Sedalia. Mrs. Donald Arnett, the club was informed, received the good driving award which was an electric iron by the good driving contest now being held in Sedalia. Mrs. Paul Sparks led in singing and Mrs. Herbert in playing a game.

The next meeting will be held February 9 at the home of Mrs. Charles Sparks, at which time there will be a Valentine exchange.

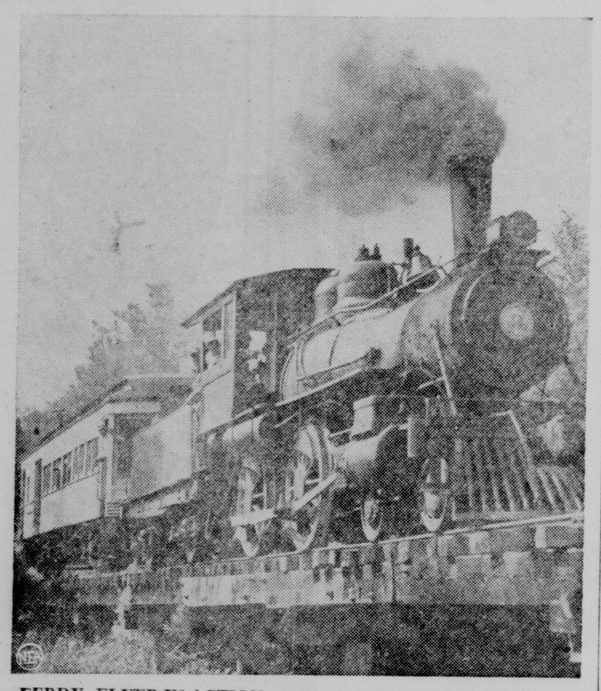
Rail Fans Help the Little Ferdy RR Puff Into The Black After 40 Years



FERDY FLYER IN ACTION: After 40 years, it's better news to people of Ferdinand,Ind., than sextuplets.

By Bert Goldrath
NEA Staff Correspondent

FERDINAND, Ind. — (NEA) — The poor but proud little Ferdinand railroad, which has been running in the red since its maiden trip 40 years ago, has at last puffed over to the black side of the ledger.

The Ferdy Flyer made its initial run of 7.38 miles from Ferdinand to Huntingburg on February 21, 1909. Then, as now, her rolling stock consisted of locomotive, tender and one gas lit combination coach and baggage car.

For that auspicious event there was a banner-festooned flatcar on which rode the town's silk-hatted dignitaries, and a brass band. Half the town's citizenry had raised $90,000 to make Ferdy possible, after abandoning hope that either the Pennsylvania or the Southern would run through Ferdinand.

At one time the Ferdy was part of the old Indiana railroad, which spiderwebbed the whole state, but which is now defunct because of bus competition.

Big reason for the Ferdy's sudden prosperity is midwestern railroad fans. On Sundays the fans and their cameras jut from every window, in dire peril of being brushed off by scraping branches.

The Ferdinand railroad is a serious enterprise for the town of 1000. The local flour mill, furniture factory and lumber yard depend on it to pull their products to the main line. Twenty boys and girls go to school each weekday in Huntingburg, commuting on the Ferdy Flyer. All the milk can stops are made twice a day.

Rain fans, who are most critical, say the Ferdy's roadbed is one of the best. Thre is little danger of the train running amok, though, as she chuffs along at a steady ten miles an hour.

* * *

The engine is a Baldwin 4-4-0, which means that, reading from bow to stern, she has four pilot wheels and four drivers. The one running now is No. 3. The first one developed a wheeze that in two years sent the road into receivership, where it has been, off and on, until very recently.

* * *

Engineer Schum has spent 21 of his 34 years with the company at the throttle. Director Sylvester Schreiner, former station agent, came home from World War II and was promoted to general manager. His duties include working as a conductor, baggageman and mail clerk on each of the one or two daily runs. President of the Ferdy is Charles F. Olinger, who owns about 40 per cent of the stock.

Schum is possibly the only engineer in the world who always faces due south when he is working. The Flyer doesn't turn around when it reaches Huntingburg, but backs up for the return trip with its four-man crew.

Now that the Ferdy is over the hump financially, its directors are forecasting some long overdue improvements. To the citizens of Ferdinand, this is bigger news than the birth of sextuplets.

'Proper Lighting' Was Club Topic

The Lone Oak club met JanJuary 10 at the home of Mrs. Harmon Rugen, Jr. Proper lighting in the home was the subject of the meeting. A discussion was held by Miss Opal Davis, county home agent.

The scripture reading was given by Mrs. Olen Morrison. The reading chairmen reported that 20 books had been read during the month. Names were drawn for Cheery Chums for the coming year.

At the close of the meeting the hostess was given a kitchen shower. The February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Roy Belt.

Extension Clubs Health Project

The County Council of Extension clubs met at the public library at 2:00 o'clock January 13. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Albert Moore. Roll call was answered by members introducing themselves and other visiting members from their club. Mrs. Granville Thompson conducted a game which helped members become acquainted.

There were 27 clubs represented. The program of the year was presented before the council and discussed. The main project for the year will be "health." The Pettis County Dramatics Festival was discussed and each club was asked to appoint a dramatics chairman to represent their club. The first meeting will be held January 22.

A committee of three was appointed to make plans for National Home Demonstration week which starts April 29. Members are, Mrs. Tom Perrin, Mrs. Max Elliott and Mrs. Howard Turner. Friday, October 26, was a tentative date set for Achievement day.

A motion was made and carried to send a potted plant, or flower, to the staff of the public library on Valentine's day in appreciation for the use of a room in the library as a meeting place for the council.

At the close of the meeting an installation service was held in charge of Mrs. Kurman Riley The council officers are: Mrs. Albert Moore, president; Mrs. Kurman Riley, vice president; Mrs. R. C. Wissman, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Lewis Hammond, Jr., reporter; Mrs. Granville Thompson, game and song leader; Mrs. Roy Hudson, parliamentarian; Mrs. Ernest Biggs, parent education chairman.

A white "mum" from a large bouquet donated by Mrs. Carl Raines was given everyone as they left.

New Platinum Analysis Developed

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—University of Texas scientists have developed new methods for analyzing platinum metals that are expected to save U. S. industry many man hours spent in testing.

Researchers analyze four principal, platinum metals by using a spectrophotometer. With the instrument they measure the intensity of light passed through a special solution in which the alloy has been dissolved, they can determine how much light the platinum metal has absorbed, and how much of the metal is in the alloy

Double War Widow

Mrs. Marguerite Davis, 29, of Birmingham, Ala., looks on as her youngest son holds two Purple Hearts—one for Joseph D. Cochran, her first husband, killed in Word War II, and one for Arnold Davis, killed last Sept. 18 in Korea. Arnold Davis, Jr., 3, holds the medals. Beside him is Michael Cochran, 6. Longer Garment Life Through Care

What About Stains? . . . If you accidentally spill any substance containing tannin, such as coffee, tea, soft drinks, beer, liquor, fruit or vegetable juices, sponge the substance out of the garment with water. Avoid the use of soap or heat. Tannin stains are easily removed while fresh. They cannot be removed if they become set. Many times these stains are invisible while fresh, but develop a tan to brown color with the heat involved in cleaning or finishing. In this stage, it is impossible to remove them from a fabric without damage to the color or the fabric itself.

Wilson Alerts Staff For Wage-Price Clamp-Down

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—Mobilization Boss Charles Wilson has ordered his staff to be ready to clamp down price and wage controls within two weeks. He got the nod last week from President Truman who has finally agreed to all-out controls.

Previously the President had gone along with the Federal Reserve board, which advised against putting the economy in a government strait jacket. The board argued that indirect controls, such as higher taxes and restrictions on consumers and bank credits, would eventually curb inflation. These indirect methods, however, have failed to hold down prices.

At the same time, a shake-up in the mobilization high-command may also accompany the new controls. For example, Wilson makes no secret around his office that he hopes to get rid of Price Administrator Mike DiSalle and DiSalle doesn't try to conceal his distaste for Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine. All this backbiting is likely to result in some heads rolling.

Meanwhile, across the Potomac in the Pentagon, the new munitions board Chairman John D. Small has been given 90 days to straighten out the mess he inherited. He took over the reins from Hubert Howard after the munitions board had failed in its assignment to stockpile strategic materials. However, President Truman still isn't satisfied with the board's progress, and has applied the spurs to the new chairman.

Industrial Targets

In the haste to expand war production, the government is paying no attention to dispersal but is throwing up new factories right where the Russians can bomb them easiest. The truth is, 90 per cent of our new plants are being built in industrial areas that are already tempting targets.

Of approximately 80 defense plants now approved for construction, 18 are located in Pennsylvania's industrial heartland. The rest will be built in the production centers of Ohio, Michigan, Alabama, Illinois, Kentucky, California, Maryland and Connecticut.

In other words, instead of scattering these factories around the country, the government is concentrating them in big cities such as Pittsburgh, Detroit, Birmingham, Chicago and Los Angeles. This not only makes our defense facilities more vulnerable, but adds to the housing, transportation and educational problems of these overcrowded centers.

Technically, the new plants will not be built by the government but by private companies. However, the government has a powerful say-so through its certification system. This is handled by the National Security Resources board, which issues certificates of necessity for building defense plants. Only factories that have been certified by the NSRB are eligible for big tax reductions under the defense production act.

Needless to say, this is a powerful lever for keeping the plant owners in line. However, the NSRB, while it has encouraged dispersal, has not enforced it. As a result, the owners are building their new factories right alongside the old.

It may be more costly to build defense plants in remote regions, but it would be safer from enemy air attack, hence a lot cheaper in the long run.

Two rival newsboys, taking sides in the Pearson-McCarthy feud, carried on a shouting match in a busy Washington street corner the other day.

The boy hawking the Washington Times-Herald shouted: "Senator McCarthy accuses Pearson of publishing secret documents!"

Not to be outdone, the boy selling the Washington Post on the same corner shouted back: "Drew Pearson tells how Senator McCarthy aided Nazi war criminals! Read all about it!"

Shifts In the House

One of the toughest questions facing the 82nd Congress is the reapportionment of the House of Representatives to conform with population shifts of the last census.

It is easy enough to transfer the 14 seats from nine states that gained the least in population to the states that gained the most. However, this won't solve the problem.

Sooner or later Congress must face the fact that the House—the chamber our founding fathers said should be "close" to the people—hasn't grown up with the country. The first House of Representatives (1789-91) had 65 members, or one to approximately 61,500 people. Today the ratio is one congressman to approximately 346,000 people.

To use a more modern comparison, there were about 92,000,000 people in the United States in 1911 when the number of House seats was raised to 435. Today we still have 435 House members, though the population has grown by more than a third.

Smart, young Rep. Frank Chelf of Kentucky did some straight talking on this the other day to President Truman in a plea for his bill to raise House membership from 435 to 450.

"I don't want the House so big that the tail will wag the dog, and my bill doesn't do that," explained Chelf. "But we've simply got to do something to give the people the Democratic representation they deserve and the framers of the constitution wanted them to have."

Truman promised to "think it over."

Note—Under reapportionment, California (which has led the population spurt since the 1940 census) will gain seven House seats, Florida will gain two, and Maryland, Michigan, Texas, Virginia and Washington, one each. Pennsylvania will lose three seats; Missouri, New York and Oklahoma, two each; and Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee, one each.

Health For All

Despite the millions of lives lost over the years during influenza epidemics, it is believeed that the disease itself is rarely responsible for fatalities. However, complications which often follow influenza may cause death. The most common of these is pneumonia. Influenza may also have an adverse effect on tuberculosis.

There are various types of influenza, all of which are caused by a virus, or tiny germ. The milder forms of influenza resemble a severe cold, with chills and fever, extreme exhaustion, and aches and pains in the muscles.

The severe form of influenza most often occurs in epidemics, when the disease spreads rapidly through the community, or throughout the nation, as it did in 1918. High fever, prostration, and excruciating muscular pain accompany the severe form.

Influenza is believed to be spread from person to person, most commonly through "uncovered" coughs and sneezes of the sick person when droplets of moisture containing the influenza virus are sprayed into the air and inhaled by those near the patient.

Although the acute stage of influenza usually has a short but severe period of a week or less, it often leaves its victim exhausted for several days. To avoid relapse and regain his lost strength, the recuperating patient should rest completely before returning to routine tasks for as long as the doctor thinks necessary.

At the first sign of symptoms that might mean influenza, the sick person should go to bed and call the doctor without delay. The dangerous complications of influenza can usually be avoided if the doctor is called in time and if his advice is carefully followed.

Visitors should be kept away from the influenza patient, for their own sake as well as for the good of the sick person, since the disease is contagious. Moreover, even seemingly healthy visitors can bring germs into the sick room which might complicate the patient's fight against his influenza.

There is not yet a specific preventive against influenza, although medical science continues its search for a protective vaccine. Right now, the best defense we know of against influenza is good personal hygiene, including adequate rest and sleep, a well-balanced diet, and the avoidance of chilling. While observing the rules of good health does not guarantee that influenza will never strike, it lessens the likelihood of contracting the disease.

These Hectic Times Call For Drastic Speed-up in Congress

World events break fast these days, and our machinery of government has to be geared to keep pace.

The U. S. Congress is today the most important national legislature in the world. What it does is awaited anxiously in capitals everywhere. More than ever in history, it ought to be quickly and efficiently responsive to the needs of the times.

No one expects an institution to be 100 per cent efficient when it is among other things a forum for debate. So long as men are moved to get to their feet and speak their piece, there will be costly delays in lawmaking. But it should be possible to keep debate within sensible limits and to get rid of outmoded, time-wasting techniques of procedure.

Congress made good strides a few years back. It streamlined its committee structure in both houses, sharply cutting the number of committees. In some fields it provided for joint House-Senate hearings to save its own and governmental officials' valuable time. It lumped all appropriations measures into a single omnibus bill to give the legislators a panoramic view of the nation's money situation. It hired more research experts to get better guidance in drafting laws.

Yet there's still a lot to do, according to the men who've studied the make-up of Congress closely. One of these, Robert Heller of Cleveland, whose ideas found their way into the most recent reorganization law, thinks several more changes are overdue.

He recommends electric push-button voting, for one thing. Oral voting, especially in the 435-member House, wastes many precious taxpayers' dollars. On just quorum calls alone—checks to see if a legal minimum is present in the chamber—Heller figures the House last year wasted the equivalent of 32 full legislative days.

Other valuable hours were frittered away because present law compels Congress to act as a city council for Washington. Repeatedly, bills to give the capital home rule have been blocked for political reasons. So the legislators consider vital foreign military aid one day, and licensing Washington barbers the next.

Lax Senate rules on the extent of debate are also extremely wasteful. Heller estimates that in 1950 the Senate consumed a good two months in utterly pointless talk, for the record or otherwise.

He believes, furthermore, that more joint congressional committees are needed to save the time of both the lawmakers and the top government men who have to come traipsing to Capitol Hill time after time to argue for money or legislation.

It goes without saying that time is money. But in this troublesome era, it is more than that. It is safety and security and preparedness to meet grave peril. Wasteful practices in Congress are no longer merely inefficient and expensive. On occasion, they are downright dangerous.

Without choking off reasonable debate, Congress should act to streamline further its structure and operations. We need a legislature attuned to the hectic pace of 1951 living.

If You Want Friendships You Have to Make Them

Writes a wife: "We've been married for five years and are happy together. We have two children we both enjoy. There's just one thing I'd like to change. We don't have any really close friends in this town we have lived in for the last three years. Some people seem to find making friends so easy and natural, but it hasn't been that way with us. Can you give us any advice?"

Here are a few questions that may help you to put your finger on the reasons why you and your husband haven't found friends in your new home.

Have you been sitting back waiting and hoping for friends to come to you? They probably won't you know. Not because you aren't worth the effort, but simply because most people who are already established in a community are so busy with the friends they already have they don't bother going out of their way to make new friends.

Make the Most of Invitations

Do you accept most of the invitations that come your way, even when it may seem inconvenient or when the evening does not sound too exciting? A newcomer who is anxious to make friends should make the effort to accept any gesture of friendliness that come along.

Do you have your home well enough organized so that you can usually manage to have on-the-spur-of-the-moment company? Being able to say: "Come by our house" after a meeting or chance encounter is the easiest way in the world for a newcomer to appear friendly without seeming to be pushing and contriving to be accepted.

Have you explored the possibility of friendships within your own neighborhood? This, too, is easy an natural for the stranger, for you can often break the ice with a load of home-baked bread, a plate of cookies, or an invitation to Johnny's mother to let him spend the afternoon with your children.

And don't forget the importance of a ready smile, a light-hearted approach to others and a real interest and concern in their affairs.

Older Person Should Limit Beer Drinking; It May Throw Strain on Heart and Kidneys

The first question today deals with the problem that is extremely difficult to answer in any scientific way.

Q—Would drinking cold beer on an empty stomach, say before supper, be harmful? Would four or five bottles of beer each evening eventually harm an older, healthy man? Mrs. E. R.

A—Apparently there is a great deal of individual variation in the effect of beer. Most people can take a bottle or two of beer on an empty stomach without difficulty but there are some whose digestive systems are disturbed by doing so. Four or five bottles in the evening regularly would probably throw an unnecessary burden on the kidneys and heart and this would be unwise for an older person.

* * *

Q—Is there an age limit for a cleft palate operation? K. L. K.

A—A cleft palate operation should be done quite early in life both because the bones knit better then, and because the necessary work on the teeth after such an operation may take a long time. So far as I know the cleft palate operation is rarely or never performed after eight or nine years old, and should be done earlier than this.

* * *

Q—When you speak of the change of life, does that refer to after the cessation of the menses or before? Mrs. M. S.

A—The change of life or menopause is generally considered to extend over a period of several years during which the activity of the feminine hormones is gradualy lessening. The stopping of the menses is only one sign of the change of life.

* * *

Q—What is done to milk when it is homogenized? Is this milk better than pasteurized milk? T. R. O.

A—Homogenized milk is milk in which the physical characteristics have been changed without changing its chemical nature. Pasteurized milk has ben heated to kill the germs. Actually homogenized milk is almost always pasteurized as well because if it is not it tends to get rancid rapidly. The process of homogenizing apparently makes the fat in the milk easier to digest and absorb, and is claimed to improve its palatability.

* * *

Q—What causes a person to keep on having pimples or sores just inside the nostrils? Mrs. H. F. J.

* * *

A—There are two principal possibilities: a chronic infection with germs or the presence of a virus which is probably the same as that which causes ordinary cold sores on the lips. In either case attention to the general health may be helpful. Your doctor also could probably give you some medicine perhaps containing one of the sulfa drugs, penicillin or one of its relatives which might clear up the difficulty.

* * *

Q—What is the "Dutch Elm" diseaes? We read about it in the newspapers yet no one ever says what it is or what the symptoms are. Reader.

A—This is a disease of trees not of people. You will have to ask a tree specialist about this.

This Last Night

By Ferd Nauheim

COPYRIGHT 1951, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Paul Twing, seeking to correct what he belives to be an injustice, kidnaps his niece Judy from her unworthy mother and flees to New York with May Jenkins, who believes in him. May and Judy separate from Paul for security, while Paul goes to contact a sea captain friend, Martin Jaboe, who can take Paul, Judy and May out of the country. Paul is tipped off that officers are waiting for him at the shipping agency and that he is to contact a Captain Cross. Cross gives Paul instructions how to meet him and Paul is light-hearted as he goes to a park to meet May. Meanwhile, May and Judy, after a narrow escape from the police dragnet, have left their rooming house. Judy is placed in a movie while May goes to meet Paul. But May is followed. At first she thinks her shadow is a policeman, then she discovers that he is simply a "wolf." But when she tries to run away from him, the man runs after her.

THE dark man quickly caught up with May Jenkins. "Now wait," he implored. "You got me all mix up. First you like me, then you don't, then you do and then you don't all over again. What's wrong with you? You need a good drink. You all worked up."

"No!" May stormed.

"Okay. So you don't want a drink. It's all right. You are nice-looking kid, but you real skinny. Maybe you hungry. Okay. So I buy you big dinner."

"No!"

May broke into a trot. The man kept up with her.

"No drink. No eat. Maybe you just the kind of girl I like." He snickered. "You are very nice girl to get acquainted with. You are like no girl I ever know before."

Through her tears of anger, humiliation and anxiety, May Jenkins saw nothing ahead that might offer an avenue of escape from her tormentor.

The point had been reached when she was ready to risk approaching a policeman, but in the street she could see only an occasional pedestrian, and no uniformed patrolman near at hand.

But diagonally across the street from her was a large apartment house. A liveried doorman stood under the canopy which ran from the structure to the curb.

May cut across the street and made straight for the apartment house.

* * *

THE doorman swung open the door for her and held it as she entered. May hurried inside, praying that her pursuer would not follow. He didn't.

She stepped into a waiting elevator. The operator, a boy, turned and looked at her.

"Floor please?"

"Is there a back way out—through the basement?" May asked.

The elevator boy's formality fled. He looked at her in frank curiosity. "Yeah. Why?"

"I'm trying to get rid of a fellow who's been following me for the last hour. He just won't leave me alone."

The operator grinned. "Why dontcher call a cop?"

"I haven't seen one. Please, take me to the basement and show me the way out of here."

The elevator operator closed the door and started the car down.

"Ain't that always the way? Cops swarmin' all over the place except when you want one."

May did not answer. The car came to a stop. The operator opened the door and secured the door with a hook.

"Follow me, kid. I'll show you the back way."

He led her down a long, dark corridor at the end of which a door opened into a wide alley.

"Just go up the alley to your right and you'll come out on West End. Or, if you want, you can cut through that other alley over there and come out on 87th."

"Thanks! Thanks so much!" May breathed.

She ran into the alley and chose the way that led to 87th Street.

At Broadway and 87th, May found a cab and directed the driver to take her to the park at 106th Street.

It was less than a mile but red lights and congested traffic seemed to conspire against her. May sat on the edge of the cab seat, her fists clenched tightly, her teeth playing with her lips in an agony of suspense.

* * *

IT was 10 minutes after 6 when she reached the park. She handed the cab driver a dollar and jumped out without waiting for her change.

The park was, as Paul Twing had described it, just a triangular patch a block long and much less than a block wide. A statue dominated the center.

There was a walk down each side of the sparse greenery that justified calling the place a "park." During the day, the park was always filled with children, mothers and nursemaids with baby carriages. The benches were usually occupied by old people sitting on the benches sunning themselves.

At this hour, the park was all but empty. Only a few people lingered on the benches or along the walks.

May hurried along the path in one direction. She came back on the other path, making a complete circuit of the park. Her eyes scanned the benches and swept the park from end to end again.

Paul Twing wasn't there.

• Q's and A's

Q—Is the greengage af plum?

A—The greengage is a greenish-yellow plum of high quality. It is named after Sir William Gage of England who imported it from France about 1725.

* * *

Q — To what extent is the nation's population concentrated in large cities?

A — More than 10 per cent is concentrated within the city limits of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Detroit, the Commerce Department reports.

* * *

Q—For what is Simon Lake best known?

A—This American naval architect was the inventor of the even-keel type of submarine torpedo boat. In 1897 he built the Argonaut, the first submarine to be operated successfully in the open sea.

* * *

Q—How was soap discovered?

A—Soap was accidentally discovered by the ancients when the grease from the sacrifices of animals offered upon the altar dripped through and mixed with the wood ashes of the altar logs.

* * *

Q—What is the productive capacity of the American steel industry?

About 100,000,000 tons annually; under present plans the capacity will be increased 22 per cent by the end of 1952.

On the Ball

Little Colleen Bekker, 18-month-old youngster, of Douglas, Mich., is shown here reaching for ball as part of treatment by Physical Therapist Barbara Brink. Little Colleen was stricken by polio at the age of eight months, was treated at a Grand Rapids Hospital. Four out of five persons hit in last year's second worst polio epidemic on record needed and received aid from the March of Dimes. The 1951 campaign for polio funds is under way now. You can help lots of little Colleens by contributing generously.

'TAIN'T SMART — If it's romance you want, girls, lower that old I. Q. That's the advice of Joan Bishop, above, one of radio's original "Quiz Kids," now doing night club work in New York. "The surest way to scare off a man," says the pretty blue-eyed redhead, "is for a gal to toss her I. Q. around." That's because men are less interested in facts than in figures.

Clark Gable and Barbara Stanwyck are the romantic twosome of "To Please A Lady", unusual film story with a thrill-packed auto-racing background which comes to the Fox screen starting today. Adolphe Menjou heads the supporting cast and the Missouri State Fair favorites—the Joie Chitwood Heildrivers—appear for the first time in a feature film.

Gary Cooper kneels beside the body of Steve Cochran, who has been bested in a gun duel. The scene is from "Dallas," the heralded Warner Bros. drama. The film, in color by Technicolor plays today thru Wednesday at the Uptown Theatre.

Tipton

Mrs. Thomas W. Miller

Charles Maynard White, principal of the Tipton high school, announces that he is a candidate for the office of county superintendent of schools, in the election to be held Tuesday, April 3.

Two events will be held in Tipton to assist in securing funds for the Infantile Paralysis campaign.

A dance will be given at Kueper Center, next Wednesday night, January 24, and on Tuesday night, January 30, there will be a basketball game at the public school gymnasium between the Tipton Cardinals and St. Peter's team, of Jefferson City.

In charge of the programs are Nelson Stonner and Toby Lademann.

Mrs. Arble Miller is a patient at St. Luke's hospital, in Kansas City where she is undergoing treatment. Her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Neis, came after her from Harrisonville last Friday evening.

Monte J. Brant has sold his cleaning and pressing business here to Frank Lang, who is now in charge of the establishment to be known as Lang's Cleaners.

Mr. Brant will remain with the business for a month when he will leave to enter the service, he being a member of the naval reserve.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Proctor, of California, are spending the winter in Phoenix, Ariz. They are the parents of Ernest Proctor, of Tipton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Koechner are the parents of a daughter, Arlene Frances, born at St. Mary's hospital in Jefferson City, January 8. She weighed six pounds. In the fame are two sons, Ronald, 8, and Everett, 4.

Major degrees will be conferred on a class of candidates by Tipton Council No. 1360, Knight of Columbus, at Kueper Center, February 4.

In the evening there will be a banquet in St. Andrew's dining room and it will be open to the public. A dance will be held that night.

Jerome Hunthausen, of Moberly, spent several days here this week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerhart Hunthausen.

Sterling Hayden and Jean Hagen are man and girl whose romance meets a tragic end in the gripping movie "The Asphalt Jungle," playing now thru Tuesday at the Liberty Theatre. Also starred are Louis Calhern, Sam Jaffe and the battle-weary sergeant from "Battleground," James Whitmore. The co-feature at the Liberty is "Jungle Stampede," the true and amazing saga of African savagery.

WINNING PAIR — Actress Martha Ray and her daughter, Melody Condos, 6, demonstrate skating form after winning mother-and-daughter race at Concord, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

MIRRORED BEAUTY — Dixieland's Maid of Cotton, Jeannine Holland, of Houston, Tex., is a reflected beauty as she sits in front of mirrors on her arrival in New York.

Leukemia Research Reported

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(AP)—A method to prolong the lives of children afflicted with lymphogenus leukemia, a consistently fatal disease, has been reported by scientists at the University of California School of Medicine.

The scienists said that with blood plasma, antibiotics and new chemical agents, it has become possible to prolong albeit briefly, the lives of children with the disease. Blood plasma and penicillin have often been used with such chemicals as folic acid in treating the children. The longest survival time for children who received the treatment was about nine months, doctors stated.

Orchestra Observes Tradition

TEL AVIV —(AP)— Even during its forthcoming three-months tour of the United States and Canada, the Israel Philharmonic orchestra will stick to its old tradition, not to give any concerts on the Sabbath; the Seventh Day of the week —from Friday after sunset until the first star shines on Saturday night.

Leonard Bernstein, who will conduct most of the concerts in the U. S. said in a newspaper interview in Tel Aviv, he was sure the American public would receive the orchestra with enthusiasm.

New Yugoslav Capital Planned

BELGRADE—(AP)—Slowly but steadily, Yugoslavia is building a new city, the country's future capital.

In what was formerly little more than a marshland at the conflux of the Danube and Sava rivers, schoolboys and girls, office hands, factory and mine workers are building the new city in their spare time. They form one of Marshal Tito's volunteer labor forces. The new capital will be on the opposite side of the Sava from the present limits of Belgrade.

Hint to Motorists

When jacking up a car, the jack should be placed as near the end of the axle as possible. The closer it is to the center of the car, the more weight it must bear.

How to get a bargain in your clutches

Our rebuilt International Truck clutches last like new—perform like new—are like new in every respect except in cost.

Under International's exchange plan you save money by swapping your old clutch for a reconditioned one. And you get a new clutch warranty in the bargain.

In addition to clutches, we have International factory-rebuilt crankshafts, fuel pumps, carburetors, Hydrovacs, brake shoes, other units. So come in and trade truck trouble for like-new performance. You'll be money ahead.

Floating Fifth Avenue

NEW YORK—(AP)—The S.S. Independence, the newest American trans-Atlantic liner, will be a floating Fifth Avenue when she sails from New York on her maiden voyage. (It is scheduled for Feb. 10.)

Chester H. Case, manager of services-operations for American Export Lines, says the new ship will be equipped with staffs and shops from Saks Fifth Avenue, Brentano's Book Shop, and Helena Rubinstein's Beauty Salon. The same services are to be furnished on the sister ship of the Independence, the Constitution, when she enters service in the spring.

Long Night in Foxhole

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA —(AP)— Hard-pressed Marines in Korea can still take time out to note a coincidence.

Corporal Malcolmn R. Long, a Marine M.P. attached to the Seventh Marines, notes that he and a buddy, Arthur R. Long, were settling down for the night in a foxhole near the Chosin Reservoir when a third Marine suddenly jumped into the hole.

"Who are you?" the two Longs asked the newcomer.

"The name is Ernest Long," was the reply.

Cautions White House Caller

WASHINGGTON—(AP)—Former Representative Maury Maverick of San Antonio, who served as mayor of the Alamo city after leaving the House, has been back in the capital for a visit. Asked about a private talk he had with President Truman at the White House, he replied:

"I'm just not talking. People who come away from there doing a lot of commenting usually don't go back."

Maverick disclaimed any intentions of returning to Washington in a federal position.

Pilot Winging His Way To His Medical Degree

By NEA Service

NEW YORK — Eugene Greider, Jr., is working his way through college, but there isn't any danger he'll try to sell you magazine subscriptions.

When Greider runs out of cash for his college bills (or for his wife and four-year-old daughter), he climbs aboard a four-engined air freighter and pilots it across the North Atlantic to places like Brussels or Cairo, or across the Pacific to Japan.

A 31-year-old veteran of Navy patrol plane and transport duty, Greider spent 350 hours and covered 70,000 miles last year flying his way through New York Medical College.

Pay As You Fly — Eugene Greider, Jr., with his daughter Cheryl, flies his way thru college.

He had completed a three-year pre-medical course before the war and found himself broke. So he joined the Navy, got his wings and flew anti-submarine patrol in the Atlantic, air cover for the Normandy landings, and later piloted hospital transport planes.

When the war ended Greider still wanted to be a doctor—and he still needed money to finish medical training. So he signed up with Seaboard & Western, a cargo airline. Between studies he has skippered one of their DC-4s called the "Singapore Trader" over both oceans and in two famous airlifts — Berlin's "Operation ittles" and the Pacific run to Japan to supply Korea.

When he started the long climb toward becoming a doctor, Greider decided he wanted to be a pediatrician. Now he's thinking about switching to flight medicine when he finishes internship and residences.

His daughter, Cheryl, four, thinks he'd be a wonderful children's doctor, though. She says the kids would never mind the pills — or even castor oil — if they could listen to Greider's flying stories at the same time.

Lincoln

Mrs. Herbert Hansen

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swearngin and children, Donald and Wanda, had as guests for supper Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mothersbaugh and sons, Mike and Max, of Windsor. Sunday afternoon visitors at the home were: Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Swearngin of Warsaw, and Misses Vera Davis, Lois Gregory and Doris Fiddler of Sedalia.

Herbert Kreisler of Kansas City, who has been in bad health the past several days, underwent a tonsillectomy at the Bothwell hospital in Sedalia the first of last week and has returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kreisler. His condition is satisfactory.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arnold of Hughesville and Mr. and Mrs. Will Arnold and son, William, of Dresden were guests last Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. S. O. Stratton. That evening they called in the Emery Arnold home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Love and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown and children spent last Sunday afternoon at Fairfield, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hare and sons had as guests for dinner last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Owens and family. Mr. and Mrs R. E. Williams and Mrs. Charles Hare of Stover were guests at the home that afternoon.

Mrs. C. F. Pohl has received word of the death of her cousin, Perry Holloway, of Long Beach, Calif. Mr. Holloway had been in ill health for some time and suffered a heart attack. The body was taken last week to Colorado Springs, Colo. Funeral services and burial were held there January 9. Mr. Holloway was formerly of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. August Keseman had as guests Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reid and Mrs. Oren Lee Varner and sons of Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hansen and children of Otterville and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hansen of Denver, Colo., called at the Bert Young home Tuesday evening and were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hansen and children that night.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yearout and family of Windsor were guests of Mr. and Mrs. August Keseman Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hansen and daughter, Connie Ann, of Calhoun, were guests Sunday of Mr. Hansen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sweeney and sons, Larry, Harold and Jimmie, of Burlington, Ia., spent Sunday with relatives and visited Mr. Sweeney's mother, Mrs. Cora Sweeney, who suffered a stroke and has been a patient at the Bothwell hospital in Sedalia for several weeks. Her condition is unchanged. Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney and sons returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hansen of Denver, Colo., spent a few days last week visiting their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hansen and children of Otterville, and other relatives and friends of Lincoln and Warsaw. The Hansen's accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Earl Coon, also of Colorado, to Missouri where Mr. Coon was called by the illness and death of his mother, Mrs. Louisa Coon, 86, of Tulsa, Okla., January 5. The body was brought to Warsaw and funeral services were held at the Reser chapel January 8. Interment was in the Riverside cemetery at Warsaw.

Gale Swearngin has sold his interest in the Lincoln feed store to his partner, A. B. Hansen, and is employed in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Moor and daughter had as guests for dinner Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. S. O. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Labahn and son, Ray, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moor and son, Billie, of near Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Owens and children had as Sunday dinner guests, Mr. Owen's father, Fred Owens. Afternoon guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Standard and family of Sedalia, Mrs. R. L. Neas and Mrs. Lois White of Warsaw, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Austin and children of Tight Wad, and Miss Wilma Owens and Mrs. Clara Hare of Lincoln.

Dr. and Mrs. S. O. Stratton, Mrs. Fred Davis, Mrs. A. M. Labahn and Mrs Oren Moor made a business trip to Sedalia last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Owens and son, Donald, entertained with a dinner at their home last Wednesday honoring the fourth birthday anniversary of their daughter and sister, Patty. Guests were Patty's grandmother, Mrs. Clara Hare, and her cousins, Patty and Tommie Butler.

Better Homes Club Luncheon

The Maplewood Better Homes club met January 10 with Mrs. W. D. Williams as hostess and Mrs. Luther Landes assisting hostess. A covered dish luncheon was served at the noon hour.

The new president, Mrs. Howard Turner, Mrs. James Ellis, secretary, opened the meeting with the devotional, a scripture reading and prayer given by Mrs. John Fowler. Mrs. W. D. Williams gave a reading on the club collect. The year books were filled out and program planned for the year. Roll call was, "Something I Would Like to See This Club Do." Mrs. James Ellis gave a report on 4-H club program plans for the year.

The meeting was closed by singing the new club song, "God Bless Our Native Land." Visitors for the day were Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, Jr.

The February meeting will be held in Maplewood Community hall, February 14. The social hour was spent in playing games.
